

mingling and holding a parade to show that the strike is still in progress.

Mills Are Opened.
The mills were opened. Thousands entered and left the gates without fear. The city went about its business as usual. Citizens thronged the sidewalks. Baby carriages brushed wheels with cabs.

The mill officials were glad the regulars were there. The men who had been holding back for fear of violence would now rush back to work, they said, and the strike would end. The strikers were glad, too, they said, for they were now assured of a square deal and the strike would be won.

There were fully 10,000 men, women, and children, strikers, policemen, former soldiers, and others in the South Chicago strike parade yesterday afternoon. Capt. Max Nootbaar and Lieut. G. L. Van Natta headed the procession, which was conveyed by a company of mounted police.

The strikers emphasized their Americanism in many ways. Some of them were in military uniform. Some carried flags. Others held banners on which they displayed their sentiments and slogans.

No Meetings Allowed.
Gen. Wood ordered that no public meetings or assemblies or parades or demonstrations against the authorities be allowed, forbade the carrying of weapons, and the wearing of army uniforms except by men actually in the service.

All men in uniform were to be examined, and those who were in the service were to be attached to some regular organization on duty in the city limits, and kept on duty during the present disturbance.

Strip Pickets of Uniforms.
Col. Maders rigidly enforced the general orders. A score of former soldiers were arrayed before him, asked to produce their discharge papers, and stripped of their uniforms. They were not held.

The soldiers enforced the order to keep the crowds moving, but picketing at the various plants was not stopped. About 800 strikers assembled in the park near the city hall, intending to hold a mass meeting. The city hall is the citadel of the "Yankees."

It bristles with armed doughboys. In the park a company of field artillerymen were drilling. Nearby a batch of army cooks were getting ready the evening mess.

But not a soldier was needed to scatter the mob. Five policemen did it with a few words. There were no protests, no signs of hesitation.

Warn of Nineteen "Blind Pigs."
Federal operatives notified Adj. Gen. H. B. Smith of the Indiana state militia that nineteen "blind pigs" were operating in Indiana Harbor and East Chicago. They were selling "chain lightning" and "raisin brandy" to the strikers, it was said, and trouble was feared.

Gen. Smith, in charge in this district, had the chief of police, Edward J. O'Donnell, close the nineteen places, fruit stores, drug stores, old saloons, and billiard halls.

Five hundred strikers took advantage of the presence of the soldiers to go back to the Inland Steel company. There are more than 3,000 at work in that plant now. All three blast furnaces were in operation yesterday, and six of the twenty-two open hearth furnaces. It is expected the other sixteen open hearths will be back into the skies tomorrow night.

Waukegan Guard Slugged.
Waukegan, Ill., Oct. 7.—Three strikers, one of whom wore a picket badge, last night attempted to slug Theo Goldsmith, wholesale fruit merchant and deputy sheriff sworn in to patrol the strike district at the American Steel and Wire plant, while he was returning home after performing guard duty.

As a result of attempts to slug loyal workmen in sections of the city outside the regularly patrolled strike district the Waukegan police and Sheriff Elmer Green's deputies began patrolling a much larger area. The strikers are also resorting to harassing tactics in automobiles.

Mayor J. F. Bidinger declared today that if one deputy or other person is injured or killed by strikers the streets in the vicinity of the wire mill will be placed in a restricted zone. The police today reported that ninety additional men returned to work today.

HELD AS RIOT INCITER.
Peoria, Ill., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Charged with attempting to incite a riot at the Keystone Steel and Iron Works when that plant resumed full operations Monday morning, John McCauley, identified as a detective in the employ of the Sherman Service of Chicago, is being held here.

McCauley was arrested by county investigators under orders from State Attorney C. E. McNamee.

"He is receiving a weekly salary of $35 and is being paid an expense account which amounts to from $5 to $7 a day," McNamee said. "He carries a union card, and through it has gained access to the meetings of the strikers here."

1181 W. W. KNEEL AND KISS FLAG IN STEEL TOWN RAID

Weirton (W. Va.) Sheriff Runs 'Em Out of City; Plants Stay Open.

Weirton, W. Va., Oct. 7.—One hundred and eighteen alleged I. W. W. captured in a raid here today were marched into the public square at Weirton, forced to kiss the American flag, and were then driven out of town by police and deputies.

Seven others, suspected of being leaders, after kissing the flag, were taken to the New Cumberland county jail pending federal investigation.

The raid was carried out without disorder. Several days ago there appeared on the sidewalks threats that "the I. W. W. will get you."

Last night the meeting place was located in an old barn on the Hancock county road. It was surrounded by heavily armed deputies. The few men in the barn sought to escape, without success.

Find Roll-Call of I. W. W.
A large quantity of "Red" literature—half a ton, it was said—in which the flag of anarchy was extolled and the prediction made that the extremists would rule the world, was seized.

The deputies also found the names of 187 men, supposed to be members of the organization meeting in the barn.

Immediately deputies were sent out and the men were rounded up in the public square. There was one fight after another in bringing the men to the square, and even after they were corralled there was resistance when the deputies gave them the option of kissing the flag or going to jail.

A big American flag, strung across the street over their heads, while another flag was used for the kissing. Most of the men were Finns, and they were told in their native tongue that they must kiss the flag or remain in custody.

Protest Uttered in Vain.
Protests came from many, but in vain. Some voluntarily took hold of the flag and buried their faces in it. The men were then informed that they must leave town. Again there was a protest, but they were escorted to the town limits nevertheless and ordered to leave.

It is claimed most of the men were furnace workers and that they came here from Woodlawn, Pa., near Pittsburgh, a few days ago. The record of the men at Woodlawn is being investigated by state and federal authorities.

W. W. Hill, a patrolman, formerly a marine, and a veteran of Chateau Thierry, led the raid and it was at his command that the radicals were forced to kiss the folds of the flag.

Strikers and Workers Battle.
Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Several men were slightly hurt and one was reported shot today when 1,000 men held up cars of the Buffalo and Lake Erie Traction company between the city line and Lackawanna.

Ties and concrete blocks piled up on the tracks held up the first car, and ultimately blocked six of them carrying workmen.

One of the trolley cars showed thirty-five bullet marks on the seats and through the windows.

All Is Quiet in Pittsburgh.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 7.—Conditions in the steel workers' strike in the Pittsburgh district were without marked change today. The works that resumed yesterday in the Donora-Monessen field after an idleness of two weeks were reported in operation today.

Alleged Kin of Dairyman Seized in Check Mixup
Lester Younger, 25 years old, of Sioux City, Ia., who claims to be a cousin of the head of the Younger-Devine Dairy company, was arrested last night on complaint of J. McGovern, owner of a saloon at 660 North Clark street. He was booked on a charge of disorderly conduct.

According to the saloonkeeper, Younger gave him a check for $25, which he cashed. He later tendered another check for $20. Both were drawn on the Iowa State bank of Sioux City. He asserted he was related to the dairy owner and McGovern telephoned to the latter. Without denying the relationship, the dairy owner refused to vouch for Younger's checks.

HOW KING ALBERT GAVE CHICAGO THE SLIP

2. The Indiana Harbor Belt railroad, which skirts Chicago, passing through Blue Island, Argon, Maywood, and other western suburbs.

3. Franklin Park, where the king's train was switched onto the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul tracks for the transcontinental journey.

NEW YORK PIERS IDLE BY STRIKE OF LONGSHOREMEN

Between 7,000 and 8,000 Go Out; Carmania Is Unable to Sail.

New York, Oct. 7.—The strike of longshoremen, which has been on and off at various ports along the Atlantic coast for several weeks, took a definite turn today, when between 7,000 and 8,000 workers at the Chelsea Improvement Company piers and the docks of the International Mercantile Marine, the White Star, Red Star, and American, and Atlantic Transport lines walked out.

Later nearly 1,000 more men employed at the Royal Mail Steamship company, the Panama line, and the Morgan, and Southern Pacific piers quit work. Officials at the piers admitted the serious extent of the strike, which is for higher wages and a "rest" hour.

Shortly before midnight 1,000 longshoremen employed in loading or unloading ten ships on the docks of the American Dock company, R. Martens & Co., and the Pouch terminal, all on Staten Island, quit work in response, they said, to orders from Manhattan.

Call Strike Unauthorized.
Leaders of the International Longshoremen's association declared the strike was unauthorized and that efforts were being made to get the men to return to work.

Meanwhile the piers are becoming congested and shipping is being impeded. Ten vessels, including the liner Baltic, were being loaded when the strike was called.

The Carmania of the Cunard line, which was due to sail today with 1,200 passengers for Liverpool, postponed its departure until tomorrow. The longshoremen's strike stopped the bunkering of the liner.

Big Strike Along Gulf.
New Orleans, La., Oct. 7.—Marine engineers, masters, mates, and pilots of tugboats of the gulf district, from Key West to the mouth of the Rio Grande, went on strike today when their demands for an increased wage scale was rejected by the Tugboat Owners' association. From 12,000 to 15,000 men are said to be involved.

LANSING WOULD BAR ALIEN REDS
Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—Continuation of wartime passport regulations for one year to prevent an influx of undesirable aliens was urged before the house foreign affairs committee today by Secretary Lansing.

Mr. Lansing told the committee that all foreign countries were adopting measures to regulate the influx of foreign-born during the disturbed condition in which the world finds itself.

"He said the state department would exercise the proposed authority only to prevent undesirable and dangerous aliens from entering the United States."

WASHINGTON NEWS —IN BRIEF—

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(Washington Bureau of The Tribune.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 7.—With the government facing a deficit this fiscal year estimated at from $2,900,000,000 to $3,500,000,000, Republican leaders in congress have abandoned their program for the reduction of taxation and are casting about for means of meeting prospective expenditures of more than $10,000,000,000, the estimated revenue being little more than $7,000,000,000. Repeal of the soda fountain, movie and other luxury taxes has been halted.

INDUSTRIAL conference adopts set rules designed to head off extremists of the "left wing" in all groups from waiting time with projects unlikely to make headway. Its purpose is to keep sessions from being flooded with panaceas and from "developing into a debating society," with enough material to keep it talking until the Fourth of July. Secretary Franklin K. Lane is made permanent chairman.

SENATOR HITCHCOCK of Nebraska stirred up a hornet's nest in the senate when he sought to link treaty opponents with bolshevists, and he was, in turn, stung by a counter charge of pro-Germanism in the early days of the war by Senator Pendergast of Washington. Senator McCormick of Illinois, submitted to the senate protests from Chicago ministers against the league of nations propaganda.

CHAS. SIBERT, chief of the chemical warfare service of the army, urged the house military committee to make provision in army reorganization for retention of the gas service, maintaining that it is of the utmost importance as a permanent department.

DIRECTOR GENERAL HINES wrote the chairman of railway executives that freight rates would not be advanced by the railway administration and that increases should be sought by the individual railroad in applications to the interstate commerce commission.

EIGHT STORES LOST IN $50,000 WINNETKA FIRE
Winnetka, Ill., Oct. 7.—A fire which started last night in a $50,000 fire that burned out eight stores along the street. Sam is suffering from nervous prostration and is unable to talk.

Mrs. Henry Obadiah, her five children, including a baby in arms, were asleep in their home, 564 Railroad avenue, when she was awakened by the fire. She hurriedly woke the children, and placing the infant in a go-cart, started to trundle it down the hall stairway. As she reached the head of the stairs she fainted and the baby and go-cart took a wild ride to the street, arriving safely. Firemen rescued Mrs. Obadiah and the children.

The fire started in the Winnetka general delivery, 568 Railroad avenue. Five of its trucks were burned. This will compel housewives to carry home their purchases today, as the company operates a system which makes deliveries for all the merchants.

YOUNG PURCELL SHADOWED ON EVE OF TRAGEDY

Trailed by Mystery Man 2 Days Before Father's Body Is Found.

BY FRED PASLEY.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Re-enacting another interrogation point in the bewildering case of Elias H. Purcell.

What was the man who shadowed his son, Thomas V. Purcell, for two days before the father's body was found in the home at 661 Roscoe street on Monday, Sept. 22?

Tells of "the Shadow."

Osborn, whose home is at 264 East Twenty-fourth street, Chicago, brought the newest figure into the case through a casual remark, and it was obvious he did not realize the importance of the disclosure. He has been an associate of young Purcell in a business and professional way for four years and the reporter was questioning him concerning the acquaintance.

"Tommy's a fine fellow, light hearted and always kidding around," Osborn said, "and we used to have a lot of fun—like at Michigan City, when I kidded him about the fellow that was shadowing him."

"What do you mean—a fellow following him?"

"Why, there was some fellow trailing him, you know?"

"When was this?"

"Let's see—that was on Sunday, Sept. 21. Then I saw him at South Haven the day before."

"But how do you know he was following him?"

"I saw him watching Tom at Michigan City, then again at South Haven."

"Where was the last place you saw him?"

"At the station Sunday afternoon, when we arrived in Michigan City."

Tom Shows Surprise.

Osborn said he had looked into Tom's room at the Vreeland hotel in Michigan City about 2 o'clock Monday morning, Sept. 22, and that Tom was sitting on the edge of his bed.

"I said to him, 'What's the matter, Tom? Worrying about that man that's shadowing you?'"

"Man following me? Why should a man follow me?" he answered.

"I'll bet I could go down to the station and find him right now," I answered.

"Soon after that I left Tom and went to bed."

Purcell scouted the idea he was being shadowed.

Osborn impresses one as being remarkably observant. He is a graduate of Cornell and is working as a drummer and xylophonist to pay for a course in newspaper and magazine advertising. He is 26 years old.

A Peep at "the Shadow."

Purcell's "shadow" is described as a man of middle age, smooth shaved, medium height, weight about 175 pounds, dark complexion. He wore a dark suit.

Osborn saw him at South Haven Saturday night, he said, but as that was the first time he thought more about it. He was not observed on the train that carried the band from South Haven to Michigan City via Kalamazoo.

At Michigan City the "shadow" was on the station platform when the train arrived at 3:11 o'clock. He was standing near the steps of the coach from which the band members alighted.

He watched Purcell so intently Osborn's attention was attracted.

Tells of Market Warnings.

Block market speculations have netted young Purcell $10,000 in recent months, he told members of the Saturday night club.

Osborn brought this out in discussing Purcell's financial condition. He had made the assertion to the reporter that "Tom is independent."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, he told me he cleaned up $10,000 in corn."

Partial affirmation of the statement was obtained from Henry Grey, baritone and star of the Saturday night club.

"I know Tom is well fixed financially," he said.

"Did you hear he had made $10,000 in corn speculations?"

"Well, I could not say specifically, but I do know he has made a great deal of money. Tom is a fine fellow and a wonderful artist."

Mr. Santrey told of having received a letter from young Purcell today, in which he expressed the hope that "maybe later I will be able to rejoin the band. But I can't leave now. The members are after me and I am not permitted to have a minute's rest."

MOB KILLS NEGRO AFTER HE GETS 10 YEAR SENTENCE

MAISON, Ga., Oct. 7.—Eugene Hamilton, a Negro, under ten year penitentiary sentence for an attempt upon the life of Charles Tingle, Jasper county farmer, was taken from Sheriff M. L. Hamilton of Jasper county, near here, early today, and shot to death at a spot near Monticello, in Jasper county.

A mob of about sixty men held up the sheriff, who was trying to bring Hamilton to Macon for safe keeping.

A coroner's jury late today investigated the lynching of Hamilton and returned a verdict of "death from gunshot wounds at the hands of parties unknown to the jury."

Re-enacting "The Face in the Window" in Purcell Mystery

Coroner and Party Take Part in Weird Night Scene at Death Flat to Help Reach Solution of Enigma. Some Figures at the Inquest Also Are Shown.

Re-enacting the scene of "The Face in the Window" in the Purcell tragedy. On the stairs, William Hornburg, milkman, who saw the face the morning before Purcell's body was found. In window, a reporter in Lieut. Sheehy's army cap and coat. In the group at head of stairs, left to right, Coroner Hoffman, Thomas V. Purcell, the dead man's son, Detective George Cudmore.

PURCELL INQUEST STORIES CONFLICT

Conflicting testimony developed at the Purcell inquest at Town Hall yesterday when the position of Purcell's body when found. The police and detectives were certain it was near enough so Purcell might have tied himself and then, with the seven inches of rope, the two feet from the sink.

The mysterious bottles seen on the floor and the bits of broken glass also brought contradictions. Patrolman Carlos Zabel was certain the two bottles were flat, of clear glass. Mr. Martin thought they were brown.

Jury Shows Keenness.

The six jurors took a keen interest in the evidence. Right at the start they displayed a desire for exactness when Zabel was asked to change some of his statements regarding the manner in which the rope was tied by both Coroner Hoffman and Capt. McCarthy.

The financial affairs of the dead musician-broker were not touched upon except that each witness was asked whether he knew anything of the details. Mrs. Purcell was not asked this.

Kin to Testify Today.

Nor were Tom Purcell's son, Mrs. Virginia Sheehy, the daughter, or her husband, John D. Sheehy, called to the stand. They will be put under oath today and asked questions pertaining to family and financial affairs.

Samuel E. King, a partner of Attorney J. P. Brower, to whom Tom, in strict confidence, entrusted the life insurance policies of his father, attended the inquest and was given permission to ask any questions he desired.

BACKS SUICIDE IDEA

All of the early testimony produced pointed to suicide. After police officers had shown how it would have been possible for Purcell to drink the poison, Coroner's Chemist W. D. McNally was called. He said death rarely occurred in cases of nicotine poisoning before five minutes after ingestion of the deadly alkaloid.

Dr. McNally declared he believed Purcell had time to tie himself after taking the poison. A Tribune reporter asked:

Q.—Is it not a matter of record in your office that in the case at Morton Grove last November two men died instantly when they drank nicotine? A.—They lived long enough to speak after they drank.

Q.—Did not you testify at the inquest, or prepare a statement, which was read into the inquest record, that death would be instantaneous? A.—Well, five minutes is pretty fast. That's instantaneous.

Q.—Did I understand you to say there were traces of nicotine in the liver and other organs of the body? A.—Yes.

Lived Several Mins.

Q.—What does that indicate? A.—That the body functioned long enough to carry this poison there from the stomach.

Q.—Then Purcell lived for several minutes after taking the poison? A.—Yes.

Q.—Long enough to tie himself. A.—Yes.

Dr. William Burnmeister, coroner's physician, who testified previously, had answered the following questions of the reporter.

Q.—Doctor, if Mr. Purcell lived after taking the nicotine he probably was shaken by a convulsion, wasn't he? A.—Probably, but not for a certainty.

Q.—Well, if he had been shaken after placing his wrists in the ropes the skin would have been marked beneath the cord, wouldn't it? A.—Yes. It probably would be broken.

Q.—It was not? A.—No.

The testimony of the two medical experts of the coroner's staff, when combined, indicated convulsions could be expected after nicotine is ingested. Convulsions, also, would leave marks. But none was found.

THE DEATH CHAIR

Patrolman Zabel, after telling of the police call from the Roscoe street building, was placed in the same chair as that in which Purcell was bound and asked to show how the dead man was tied. The death chair was used as a witness stand for the remainder of the day. Zabel was questioned by Coroner Hoffman.

Q.—I hand you a piece of rope and ask you if it is the same as that with which Purcell was bound. A.—Yes, sir; that's it.

Q.—Now, show the jurors the manner in which the hands were tied. A.—Well, this hand, the right, was tied down hard to the arm of the chair. Q.—Now, you're sure that's right? Is that right, Capt. McCarthy?

Zabel—This (indicating the right hand) is the hand that was tied down to the arm of the chair. The left was just held by this rope being twisted.

He Changes His Story.

Q.—Now, think hard, officer. A great deal depends on whether or not Purcell could have tied his right hand himself.

Capt. McCarthy—You mean the left hand was held by the twisting and the right hand was tied in the slipknot this way—so it could be moved.

A.—Yes, that's what I mean. The right hand was tied with the knot, the slipknot.

Zabel having confirmed the previous statements of the police, the questioning was continued.

Chauffeur Ernest Reidel of the Town Hall police, who told the rope that bound Purcell, then demonstrated how Purcell had been tied. One of the jurors asked:

Q.—Did you have to cut the left hand free? A.—No; it slipped.

Q.—By another juror—How much play from the chair did the right hand have? A.—He could have moved his hand up.

JANITOR IS QUIZZED

The coroner, the police, and the jurors expressed themselves as dissatisfied with the explanation of Henry Van Vaender, the Belgian janitor, who discovered the body, as to why he entered the apartment. His testimony was practically the same as that given in yesterday's Tribune. He offered no reason for "thinking it was funny" except that the Purcell light was burning, that the shades were drawn at breakfast time, and had been down over Sunday.

He declared he did not know Mrs. Purcell was away. He was not certain Mr. Purcell had not slept late, either.

Coroner Hoffman dismissed him with instructions to remain where he could be found quickly if desired for further questioning.

His wife was interrogated, but knew nothing more.

Whisky vs. Sirup.

John Johnson, a neighboring janitor who was called by Van Vaender when he saw the body, also was questioned. He knew nothing of what was in Purcell's rooms except that there was "a quart whisky bottle" on the table. Further questioning revealed that it was the sirup bottle, previously identified.

No light was shed on the disappearance of the bottles and bits of glass found on the floor by the police, but not included in the evidence gathered.

That considerable rubbish from the building is taken directly to the furnace room by the tenants and burned was the testimony of the janitor. He did not remember what he found in the firebox of the hot water heater on Tuesday, the day following the discovery.

Assistant State's Attorney James McShane, who heard all testimony, showed interest in the manner in which rubbish, garbage, and waste are burned in the flat. He refused to say what point he was endeavoring to make.

Tenants Are Heard.

Other witnesses heard were Mrs. Leonard Bamberger, a tenant of the Purcell building; her son, Eugene, an attorney; George Wagner, another tenant; Dick Nessler, the Purcell milkman, who saw and heard nothing unusual Sunday morning or Monday night; Lee Griffiths, a Parmelee Transfer company clerk, and William Durnick, a Parmelee chauffeur.

Both of the Parmalees men lacked any means of supporting their early story of a mysterious woman's phone message asking that bundles be carried from 661 Roscoe street, the Purcell apartment, to 4234 North Robey street on the Saturday preceding the finding of Purcell's body. They denied and then confirmed their statements to the police two weeks ago, when they said they were not certain about either address.

Inquest Resumed Today.

The six jurors serving are: J. A. Howlett, 843 Cornelia avenue; David Masowitz, 3547 North Halsted street; Joseph Hunt, 5800 Indiana avenue; Ole Olegard, 848 Grace street; John S. Crawford, 316 Dakin street, and F. J. Mitchell, 2155 Addison street.

The inquest will be resumed this morning at 9:30 o'clock at Town Hall station.

Members of the Purcell family probably will be the first called, followed by Town Hall detectives, who have worked on the case.

Any individuals they mention will be subpoenaed if any officials or persons interested demand this action, Coroner Hoffman said.

the kitchen door and that the screen door had been propped ajar.

"This is extremely important," the coroner asserted, after Hornburg had answered questions for more than half an hour. "If the witness is correct, it indicates almost beyond doubt that Purcell was murdered."

He then directed the witness to be at the Purcell flat at 8 o'clock with his lantern.

Scene Is Reenacted.

A reporter donned the officer's cap and coat, found in the apartment with Purcell's body, and took a place at the bedroom window in the court.

Hornburg poised himself at the fence. At a signal from the coroner, the reporter started through the Purcell hall and dining room to the kitchen. The milkman leaped over the fence and walked toward the porch stairs.

The reporter pulled the shade aside at precisely the moment Hornburg says he observed the mysterious "face" as he stepped on the first step.

"Very good," said the coroner, "and now let's see about the key."

Some More Perplexities.

The door leading into the kitchen is just west of the window. It is divided from the stairs by a solid wood partition, in which a door is cut. Obviously the kitchen door and its screen could not be seen unless the partition door were open—a position that Hornburg previously had said he thought it occupied.

But the partition door opens toward the east, obstructing the view of the window from the bottom of the steps. So the milkman, this having been made plain, declared he believed the door must have been closed.

The keyhole in the kitchen door may only be viewed otherwise through the railing of the porch. "Like this," said Hornburg, dropping the light below his knees. The effect was to leave the kitchen door in utter blackness.

Light from Keyhole?

"Well," said Coroner Hoffman, after studying the situation for several moments, "I guess you must have seen light coming through the empty keyhole and mistaken it for the gleam of a new key hanging in the lock."

Hornburg agreed.

The policemen were interested spectators but refused to comment. Neither would Assistant State's Attorney Prytzlanski and McShane make comments.

Sifts Purcell's Finances.

The coroner then requested that Tom Purcell, son of the dead man, produce his father's check books. Only one had been found, the one asserted, the stubs of which showed small payments from August 26 to September 22.

"I intend to go into Purcell's finan-

SOME COMMENT BY AN EXPERT ON CORONER'S QUIZ

"Lacking proof that Purcell killed himself, the authorities are trying to establish as fact that it was possible for him to do so," said a criminologist who heard yesterday's testimony at the coroner's inquest.

"All main witnesses produced were led to say that he could have killed himself. There was nothing to show that he really did."

"On the other hand, nothing was brought out to show that he was not murdered. Evidently, they figure that if they can convince the jury that it was possible to commit suicide, murder will be regarded as out of the question."

"Those who use this method of reasoning are within their rights, availing themselves of the funds supplied to them by other patriotic gentlemen like Mr. Lamont and his colleagues in that house."

"Those of us who differ from the proponents of the league have not the financial resources to carry on this tremendous propaganda, but I venture to state that other senators have received, as I have, letters from many objecting clergymen."

"Predictions as to ratification dates were revised again today and prophets set the time for Nov. 10 instead of Nov. 1."

HITCHCOCK FOUND VALOR AT END OF WAR: POINDEXTER

Volley of Hot Charges Fired in Senate Tiff Over the Treaty.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, the administration senate leader, stirred up a hornets' nest today by linking the opposition to the peace treaty with bolshevism and anarchism.

Senator Poindexter, Washington, Republican, promptly retorted by reviewing Mr. Hitchcock's record before and during the war.

"The senator talked a great deal about the bolshevik; it is not long since he was talking about the pro-Germans being opponents of the league," Senator Poindexter said.

"Got Bold All of a Sudden."

"It seems to be quite a bold attitude for one to take who, in the fighting between the allies and Germany, was doing what he could to retard it, at least up to the point where the United States declared war; who, on various occasions introduced bills and resolutions for the purpose of thwarting the efforts of our allies, and to cut off the supplies of munitions; who declared in congress on various occasions that he sympathized with the Germans, on other occasions that he was neutral in this war; who was not conspicuous at any time, even when we entered the war, in waging it to a victorious conclusion."

"He only becomes prominent in his anti-Germanism and his denunciation of pro-Germanism after the fight is over. There is always a certain type of men who safely place themselves on the outskirts of a fight while the fight is going on, and after it is over they immediately take the center of the stage and become exceedingly belligerent."

Charge Irritates Hitchcock.

"The senator has charged me with being pro-German," shouted Senator Hitchcock. "The senator has no ground for saying that during the war I did not do everything I could to add to the efficiency of our departments in the fighting."

Senator Hitchcock insisted the country overwhelmingly favored the league. "The only organizations in this country they (the treaty opponents) can appeal to are uncompromising bitter partisanship, anarchists, bolsheviks, and the country's lawless elements," Mr. Hitchcock declared.

Many letters and telegrams were read into the record today to show the widespread propaganda, in behalf of the league by the League to Enforce Peace.

Protests to McCormick.

Senator McCormick, Illinois, read two letters from Chicago ministers protesting against the propaganda. One of the letters came from the Rev. Percy W. Stephens, 2215 Washington boulevard, Chicago, announcing the propaganda as "unfair."

The Rev. Edward J. Webster wrote: "I do not see how you can preach a gun and fight than see the United States knuckle down to this present half-baked covenant."

"I wish to call the attention of senators to the fact that they have received these letters of the League to Enforce Peace and of the National Committee on Churches and the Moral Aims of the War," Mr. McCormick said, "to the dupes of the propaganda, in the names of the distinguished gentlemen who are on the staff of the two organizations, Hon. William H. Taft, Alton B. Parker, Hamilton Holt, Sidney Gulick of pro-Japanese fame. These gentlemen, patriotically enough, earnestly enough, generously enough, are engaged in the two organizations."

Plenty of Funds Available.

"They are within their rights, availing themselves of the funds supplied to them by other patriotic gentlemen like Mr. Lamont and his colleagues in that house."

"Those of us who differ from the proponents of the league have not the financial resources to carry on this tremendous propaganda, but I venture to state that other senators have received, as I have, letters from many objecting clergymen."

"Predictions as to ratification dates were revised again today and prophets set the time for Nov. 10 instead of Nov. 1."

VON DER GOLTZ AND STAFF JOIN RUSSIAN REDS?

Copenhagen Gets Unconfirmed Report; Rebels, Berlin Says.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 7.—Gen. von der Goltz, commander of German forces in the Baltic provinces, whose activities there have recently led to sharp exchanges between the allied powers and Germany, has, with his staff, joined the Russian bolshevik forces, according to a Berlin dispatch to the National Tidende, quoting a report from Petrograd Telegram agency. There is no confirmation of the report obtainable here.

BERLIN SAYS "REBELS."
The case of Gen. von der Goltz and the German troops which remained under his command in the Baltic provinces after the close of the war, has been in dispute between the supreme council at Paris and the German government for months. The withdrawal of these troops was long since demanded by the allies, the most recent note of the supreme council threatening Germany with the cutting off of her provisioning and with other penalties if she did not speedily secure their removal.

The Berlin government has claimed that the von der Goltz troops were rebellious, desiring to remain in the Baltic region and settle there, and that they had refused to obey orders to evacuate it.

The latest German note on the subject, now before the supreme council, declared that the pay of the troops had been stopped and their supplies and munitions cut off, and that Gen. von der Goltz had been appointed in place of Gen. von der Goltz to take charge of the evacuation which Germany was doing everything possible to bring about.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—The council is drafting three notes to be sent Germany in reply to the German response to the peace conference ultimatum that Gen. von der Goltz's troops must evacuate Lithuania immediately. It is believed the supreme council will decide to send an interallied commission to the German troops, as the German note suggested.

COPENHAGEN, via Paris, Oct. 7.—The rumored activity of the German troops of Gen. von der Goltz at Mitau has caused the mobilization of all the reserves of the Estonian army. A Russian northwestern army is continuing slowly to advance in the direction of Pskoff. It finds the enemy much smaller in number than expected. It is thought the bolsheviks have moved their troops from Narva to reinforce the lines fighting against Gen. Denikin.

Gen. Kravchenko is now on his way here to take part in the anticipated drive towards Petrograd.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The capture of 15,000 bolsheviks during operations around Vornesh by Gen. Denikin's troops is claimed in a communique received by wireless from the general headquarters today. The Denikin troops also took a large amount of booty.

The Vornesh district lies to the southeast of the Orel region, towards which another section of the Denikin forces was reported Oct. 6 to be rapidly advancing. Gen. Denikin's reported success on these two fronts indicates a wide spread of territory along which his forces are advancing toward Moscow.

Confirm Drinsk Capture.
STOCKHOLM, Oct. 7.—An intercepted Russian bolshevik wireless message from Moscow confirms the report that the bolsheviks have been forced to abandon the town of Drinsk between old Russia and Poland, says a telegram received here from Reval. The Red troops had been defeated in violent fighting.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 7.—American business men are arriving in Copenhagen to get into connection with the present trade houses.
It looks like this city will have a great future as the emporium of the Baltic sea. All Americans are very much surprised at the ability of the Danish merchants, who are doing a big business here and believe Copenhagen will become the transit harbor of the whole Scandinavian Baltic.
After the harbor strike is settled conditions will be fine, with shipment made convenient to the traffic of other Scandinavian states.
Frank A. Crabb, a Chicago live stock expert, will arrange for a large shipment of cattle to the Scandinavian Baltic states.
Denmark also is a buyer of lots of American whisky.

WHAT ABOUT FIUME? BRITAIN SAYS TO ITALY

Note Expresses Surprise and Shows England Is Worried.

BY HENRY WALES.
[By Wireless to The Chicago Tribune.]
[Copyright, 1919: By The Tribune Company.]
PARIS, Oct. 7.—Great Britain has sent a note to Rome stating its surprise that the Italian government has permitted the Fiume incident to continue.

Frank Polk, who has returned from Coblenz and attended the supreme council meeting this morning, knew nothing of the English note this evening.

This is taken to mean that the British are beginning to realize that the Italian-Fiume situation is a more serious problem for them than it is for the United States, which is so much further removed in case another war is precipitated. It is believed that the French also have sent an intimation to the Italians that something must be done about D'Annunzio's occupation at Fiume.

DENY D'ANNUNZIO TALES

BY JOHN CLAYTON.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright, 1919: By The Tribune Company.]
FIUME, via Paris, Oct. 7.—Owing to the repeated denials from Serbian headquarters that any attempt will be made to attack Fiume, or that any new concentration of troops had been made along the border, investigations have been made by Italian and other agents to ascertain the true state of affairs at Fiume.

Results of the investigations placed in my hands today contradict almost in their entirety the declarations of the D'Annunzio regime and the many reports published at Trieste.

I have every reason to believe the statements contained in the two documents I examined, for I had known the men for some time previous to the investigations in the Fiume situation. They declare there has not been and will not be any concentration of troops against Fiume, and that the Serbians will await the decision of the peace conference regarding the city.

Purpose Behind Reports?
The documents go on to state that there is no foundation for D'Annunzio's warning of an attack which threatens the city.

There must be some purpose behind the many declarations of Serbian concentration which have come from Italian sources. The Serbian government does not want war. It will move forward only a conflict could be brought on by a clash between border troops.

The Jugoslav government has made itself clear on its attitude toward Fiume until the peace conference acts.

DEMAND GERMAN OFFICERS GUILTY OF WAR CRUELTY

England, Belgium, and France Prepare Long Lists.

BY HENRY WALES.
[By Wireless to The Chicago Tribune.]
[Copyright, 1919: By The Tribune Company.]
PARIS, Oct. 7.—Great Britain, France and Belgium have prepared lists of hundreds of German army and navy officers whom they ask to be extradited and asked for committing crimes against recognized rules of war.

The English navy has made up lists of the submarine commanders who torpedoed merchantmen and hospital ships at sea and in English ports. The English will also demand certain Zeppelin and aeroplane pilots who bombed London.

France will demand numerous German aviators who piloted Gothas over Paris and bombed the city last year.

Punish "Big Bertha" Crew.
The French also will demand extradition and trial of those responsible for the long range bombardment of Paris by "Big Bertha." It is believed those guilty may include the leading Krupp engineers who manufactured the cannon, as well as the artillery officers who fired the piece.

Belgium wants the German officers who acted as town mayors in the occupied zone during the war, and were responsible for the deportations and cruelties.

All will join in demanding justice against the German doctors who let prisoners die without attention, and against the cruel German guards who mistreated prisoners of war.

U. S. Prepares No List.
It is understood the United States will not demand that any Germans be brought to justice, although America must join the allies in demanding the extradition of the former Kaiser, President Wilson having promised Lloyd George and Clemenceau to support them last spring.

According to the treaty terms, these lists of guilty Germans must be submitted to the German government within a month after the treaty is ratified.

Youth, 19, Preparing for Ministry, Drowns Self

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Instead of going to Chicago, as relatives believed, to visit his two sisters, Miss Vera Foster, a trained nurse, and Mrs. J. R. Linn of 8908 North Ashland avenue, Eugene Foster, 19, who recently began to prepare himself here for the Baptist ministry, committed suicide by jumping into the James river several miles above Richmond. His body was found today floating in the stream.

In a note to his mother, Mrs. Martha B. Foster of Pamplin, Va., he had hinted at suicide and in another note to his landlady he had written he was "going far away." The latter gave rise to the theory he had journeyed to Chicago.

Mrs. F. R. Eakin of Pocahontas, Va., a third sister, was still searching for him when she heard of the finding of the body. His only brother was killed while serving with the Rainbow division in France.

PAINT GLOOMY GERMAN PICTURE OF TRADE FUTURE

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright, 1919: By The Tribune Company.]
BERLIN, via Copenhagen, Oct. 7.—Through reports by its recently created foreign trade office, the German government today paints a gloomy picture of its own immediate economic future.

"General economic conditions in Germany continue, as previously, to suffer from the harmful effects of lack of coal and raw materials as well as wage demands, strikes and the lowered productivity of labor," it reads concerning the situation at the beginning of October.

"In spite of heavy orders and comparatively favorable selling terms in other countries, insignificant production, together with our low exchange, makes the importation of raw materials and foodstuffs increasingly difficult."

The barley crop situation is reviewed as more or less satisfactory, and then the industrial situation is taken up.

"Because of the shortage of materials and coal, the reduced output of the workman, the increased expenses and consequent unprofitableness in the operation of our industries, we have been compelled to limit our activities by the shutdown or discharge of some employees, in addition to which the demands of the workmen have also led to shutdowns.

"In spite of this the labor situation shows a gradual improvement. The number of unemployed reported in one hundred and fifty large cities shows not more than four hundred thousand. Although this total is considerably larger in view of the return of prisoners and the large number of fugitives from the occupied territory of lands separated from Germany by the treaty, this slow improvement can't continue."

The report holds that as a result of the increasing extreme austerity of the railroad conditions the coal situation has grown worse.

Conditions in the chemical industry, it is reported, have grown worse, and although the prices are already materially raised, a further raise is to be looked for. The potash situation is unchanged. Deliveries are being made to the neutrals and England, and have begun to America, but many orders to the English colonies in South Africa cannot be filled.

The foreign trade office says the textile industry is also seriously threatened by the coal situation and other dangers.

There is also gloomy word concerning the failure of marine shipping to improve.

DEFICIT IS BAR TO LOWER TAXES, VIEW OF G. O. P.

3 1-2 Billion Shortage in 1920 Called Heritage of Administration.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Confronted with an estimated deficit in government revenue this fiscal year of from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000, Republican leaders in congress have abandoned their projected program for the reduction of taxation and are seeking means of increasing the federal income.

Chairman Good, house committee on appropriations, says the total net expenditures in the year ending June 30, 1920, will be $10,831,301,585, and total revenues will not exceed $7,229,929,240, leaving a deficit of $3,591,273,345.

There is a possibility, however, that by the return to the treasury of the $1,000,000,000 wheat guarantee fund and additional salvage of war equipment, this deficit can be reduced to $2,491,273,345.

Allies to Repay Loans Slowly.

The governor of the federal reserve board has said the allies, which have borrowed nearly $10,000,000,000, cannot be expected to pay any interest on these loans for at least two years, and that the interest will be added to the principal.

Congress is trimming departmental demands to the bone, and yet the total of prospective imperative expenditures cannot be brought within the income.

Former Secretary McAdoo is criticized for unbalancing a deficit on the Republican congress by bringing about a reduction of taxes from $8,000,000,000 last year to $4,000,000,000 this year.

Now the Republicans must raise that $2,000,000,000 and probably more. They began by halting all moves to repeal existing taxes. The repeal of the soda fountain tax, passed by the house, is shelved in the senate.

Movie Tax to Stay.

The ways and means committee indicated at a hearing of moving picture interests today that it would oppose repeal of the movie tax, which yields $6,000,000 a year.

Republicans have abandoned all hope of revising the income tax downward. Representative Copley and some members of the ways and means committee, however, are contending for a revision at the next session, which, while not reducing and possibly even increasing the aggregate income from this source, would redistribute the tax burden with greater equity to the individual. Principally, they would transfer the corporation taxes to the individual stockholders.

Tariff Surcease Held Slight.

Chairman Fordney, ways and means committee, is intent upon revising the tariff upward, but the additional revenue from this source would be only a fraction of the deficit the nation faces.

In addition there is little hope of enacting higher customs duties during the Wilson administration, though some Republicans think the president would hesitate to veto a higher tariff bill in the face of pressing necessity.

Chairman Penrose, senate finance committee, does not think tariff legislation will be feasible until the next administration.

"The world is still upset and commercial and industrial conditions so disturbed and involved, it would be difficult, if not impossible, to make proper tariff schedules," he said today.

"The state of foreign exchange makes international trade difficult. Foreign countries are adopting embargoes and other import regulations for their advantage."

"After the next presidential election, when it is hoped Republicans will be in control of all branches of the government, will come the opportunity to abolish the excess profits taxes and other complicated and burdensome forms of taxation, together with taxes on articles of consumption."

GRANTED DIVORCE

Claim of Desertion Wins Freedom for Mrs. Vanderbilt in Rhode Island Hearing.

Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt

MRS. REGINALD C. VANDERBILT GIVEN DIVORCE

Also Awarded Custody of Daughter in Decree of Court.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt of Newport and New York was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce in the Superior court today on the grounds of desertion and was given the custody of their daughter, Cathleen, aged 15 years. The decree becomes final in six months. Mrs. Vanderbilt will be known as Mrs. Cathleen Vanderbilt.

Nothing was stated in the petition as to alimony, but it is known that before the divorce was contemplated Mr. Vanderbilt made a liberal settlement which makes both wife and daughter independent for life. The amount could not be ascertained.

Tells of Desertion.

The deposition of Mrs. Vanderbilt, upon which the divorce was granted, cited, and was corroborated by Mrs. B. Preston, a friend of Mrs. Vanderbilt, and Miss Gabrielle, an aunt, a French governess and companion of Cathleen, that while Mrs. Vanderbilt, Cathleen, and the governess were in Paris during 1912 they were left stranded, forcing Mrs. Vanderbilt to appeal to her husband's agent for funds.

The agent was without authority to act, and finally released Mr. Vanderbilt. The radio brought back instructions to provide Mrs. Vanderbilt and party with passage to New York, where she arrived, but there was no one there to greet her. Ever since Mr. Vanderbilt, she deposed, has ignored her.

Could Repair Differences.

Mrs. Vanderbilt further deposed that in the summer of 1912 she had hoped to patch up their differences in Paris, but the results were no better there than in this country.

There have been reports here for some time that Mr. Vanderbilt intends to remarry, but the identity of the woman is not known.

IRELAND SEARCH AND SEIZURE HAS U. S. WAY BEATEN

Papers Not Necessary; Conducted in Force; Colonel Loses.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.] DUBLIN, Oct. 7.—American house-holders with damp cellars who shudder at the thought of search and seizure might find some ray of comfort in the condition of affairs under which the householders of Ireland live. In America officers, upon entering and searching a house, must produce and show legal authority for their act, but in Ireland, under the present rule, this is unnecessary.

The general searching of houses in Ireland is conducted under the name of "raiding." It continues all over the island today and, under the arbitrary powers vested in Lord French, the viceroy, no warrants or documents of authorization are required. The raids are conducted either by the military or by the Royal Irish constabulary, which is the British police force, or the Dublin metropolitan police.

English Colonel Surprised.

No homes high or low, official or clerical, are immune from raids. It is not so long ago that the home of the assistant provost marshal of Dublin, a dignified, red faced lieutenant colonel of the British army, was visited in the customary fashion. The English colonel was summoned to his doorstep by his orderly and met by three raiders, who were in plain clothes, and who introduced themselves simply.

"I am Inspector O'Brien," said the leader of the trio, "and I have orders to search the house for hidden arms. Sorry to disturb you, colonel, but orders are orders."

"But I say," replied the colonel. "Dammit, I say, I'm assistant provost marshal of Dublin, and officer of his majesty's forces."

"Sorry, sir," replied Inspector O'Brien, "but the order is explicit, and we must search the house." Which they proceeded to do, with the result that they took possession of the colonel's fine hunting rifle and 200 cartridges.

Had to Do His Duty.

"But I say," said the colonel, seeing the inspector and his men preparing to leave with their findings. "I say, one would suppose that the crown could trust me with my own hunting rifle. Dammit, I bought it in India."

"I am sure, colonel," replied Inspector O'Brien, "that you are far above suspicion, but sure 'tis a bad thing to leave such a weapon around the house in such rebellious times. You see, sir, there's no telling but what during your absence it might fall into the hands of the enemies of the king."

"Well, I dare say I can get it back tomorrow from the chief inspector's office," replied the colonel, who complimented the inspector and his comrades on their great loyalty to his majesty the king and their stern sense of duty. He opened a quart of champagne with which he and the raiders drank "bad cess to the Irish rebels."

Inspector O'Brien and his men left with the rifle and ammunition, and the colonel's promise that he would write a letter of recommendation for Inspector O'Brien to the chief inspector.

He was as good as his word, and then it developed that the raid on the colonel's house and the confiscation of the rifle and ammunition had not been the work of the police, but was simply the daring of a Dublin Sinn Féin who needed the rifle to replace one taken from his home in a police raid several nights previous.

FINED UNDER SADDLER LAW.

J. Gripton, 4530 Federal street, was fined $100 under the Saddle Law by Judge Daniel P. Trust yesterday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Gripton, a switch tender for the Pennsylvania railroad, was arrested Monday night by a special policeman who threatened three other employees with a revolver.

BUMPS INTO AUTO AS BRIDGE RISES; CHASE, ROW, JAIL

W. F. Meisner of 1821 Bessell street, former president of the Chicago Malt and Liquor company, but since July 1 owner of a garage at 1147 West Sixty-ninth street, had an experience with the police last night that cost him nearly an hour in a cell and will necessitate his appearance in court this morning. He is charged with two infractions of the Lincoln park rules—damaging property and resisting an officer.

Meisner was just about to drive over the Rush street bridge in the twilight when the bridge went up. Stopping on the incline, he slid back and bumped into the car behind him. He says he didn't think any damage was done, as the man behind said nothing. Fifteen minutes later, at Chicago avenue, an autoist shouted for him to stop. He refused. When he reached Larrabee and Eugene streets he was again commanded to stop, this time by a policeman in an auto. He stopped. The man he bumped into, Frederick Teich, 2725 Pine Grove avenue, had picked up Policeman Harry Morley, stationed at North avenue and Lake Shore drive.

Meisner put up a scrap when he was arrested, but Morley denies he pulled his revolver. Meisner gave a cash bond of $100 and was released after being locked up until the bond was forthcoming.

HEAD, FEET, AND HANDS SOLVE 3 CITY MYSTERIES

Brains Also Figure in These True Detective Stories.

Let's get out a book of detective stories to take the place of the "Dead Eye Dan" and "Slim, the Sleuth" series, and the other paper novels now in vogue among the younger set.

Let's fill it full of clever cases. We won't have to go any further for them than to the Chicago police force. Take the stories of three arrests made yesterday. Call one "The 6 1/2 Head," call the second "The Bunion Feet," call the last one "The Mechanical Hand." And there we are. Easy, isn't it? And entertaining, too. Listen.

"THE 6 1/2 HEAD"

At a quarter of six last night Detective Paul Bolum and Charles McShane might have been seen standing at the corner of Leland and Western avenues. They might have been— in fact they were— discussing the mysterious case of Dr. Maurice H. Rosenberg, who fought a robber in the (Grand Hotel) night before last. He had been called to Room 320. A tall young man pointed an automatic at him. Dr. Rosenberg fought. The man ran out. He left behind him a 6 1/2 cap and a gray suit. He had registered as L. Klein.

"You remember, dear comrade," Bolum might have been overheard— do you believe that?—"you remember the shooting of Burns and Lenehan?" McShane did. Burns and Lenehan were detective sergeants killed by two holdup men last Friday morning.

"One of the robbers used an automatic," said Bolum. "He left behind a 6 1/2 size stiff hat. He was a tall young man in a gray suit. Suppose that bird could be the one who tried to stick up Dr. Rosenberg, esteemed partner?"

Watches Men in Auto.

"Beg pardon, old darling," said McShane, "but my attention wandered. I was looking at those hard-boiled eggs in that auto."

"One of them has a 6 1/2 head," observed Bolum, "and a crook's jaw. Let us haste, dear pal, and apprehend them."

Strange as it may seem, one of the two men escaped. The other was caught. In his pocket was a notebook containing the name of Dr. Rosenberg, the address of his home and his office, and his telephone number. Dr. Rosenberg was called to the detective bureau and identified the prisoner. He once. He gave the name of Arthur Harsmann of 2326 North Rockwell street, and a specimen of his hand writing is said to be identical to that of the man who registered as L. Klein. And he has a 6 1/2 head. Witnesses to the shooting of Burns and Lenehan will look at him today.

"THE BUNION FEAT"

Detective Sergeant William Freeman scanned the telegram closely. It was from Sheriff Charles Green of Idaho, and demanded the arrest of Mrs. Anna Hoover, 22 years old, 11 1/2 West Ontario street. She was wanted on a charge of grand larceny. The sheriff added she was a slicker and could be identified by a large red bunion on each foot.

"Fine," said Freeman, "all I have to do is look through her shoes. If she has silk stockings, though, 'twill be easier than if she has wool."

Woman Answers Bell.

He went to the house. A woman answered the ring. She was about 22 years old. But Freeman had forgotten his X-rays. The woman said she didn't know any Mrs. Hoover. What was there to be done? Suppose she really wasn't Mrs. Hoover—it meant a big damage suit.

He limped toward the door. He turned and looked at her, anguish in his eyes.

"Bunions," he said. "I've got one on each foot."

"So have I," said the woman—and she slept overnight in the woman's detention home No. 1.

"THE MECHANICAL HAND"

Some time ago the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad issued to Albert Kafka, 3427 West Thirty-seventh place, a check for $38.50.

Kafka was so overjoyed he didn't know what to do. So he lost the check. He notified the company and received a duplicate. Therefore there was much surprise, not to say indignation, when the original check, signed with Kafka's name, turned up in the office of the company's treasurer.

Detective Sergeants Frank McGurk and Patrick Mulvihill were given the case to clean up.

Work Before Eating.

"Shall we eat first?" asked McGurk, "or get this guy?"

"Let's get him, it'll take about fifteen minutes. The check was cashed at the Chicago Orthopedic Appliance

MODERN VENUSES UNKIND TO MARS, COURT IS TOLD

AMONG the many persons disappointed in marriage who appeared before Judge Cooper in the Superior court yesterday were four returned soldiers, who voiced their complaints. Two of these told of the havoc that war had wrought upon their domestic happiness, of the unfaithfulness of their mates while they were serving their country. Decrees of divorce were granted all of them.

"I left for the war the day after I married, May 11, 1918," said Lieut. Lawrence Moon of 643 West Washington boulevard, in asking a divorce from Mrs. Mayre S. Moon. "When I returned from France I couldn't find my wife at first, but later I got the goods on her."

"Later she called me up and said I tried to get a divorce she would shoot me. When I told her what I know, that she had occupied a room in the Stratford hotel with a man by the name of Russell, she admitted it."

Clarence P. Brown said that Mrs. Alena Johnson Brown had left him July 1 last, twenty-four days after their marriage.

"She did not come home at all that last night," Brown said, "and when she did come the next day she admitted that she had been to the New Bradford hotel with H. J. Holden, another overseas soldier."

Mrs. Gertrude Helen Beaudreau was dissatisfied with her married life with David A. Beaudreau, 10550 Avenue L, South Chicago, according to his testimony. "She left me Aug. 19, 1913, saying she wanted a faster life and a man with more money," he said.

Robert M. Burton, 1002 North La Salle street, testified that Mrs. Edith M. Burton deserted him in October, 1915.

company, 23 West Lake street. Let's go over there, and maybe they'll give us a helping hand."

They learned the check had been given as part payment on a mechanical hand of extraordinary design, being made for Felix Czerwinski, 3419 West Thirty-seventh place. So, after Felix had been identified as the man who presented the check, and had been charged with forgery, Pat said to Frank, "What say to a dish of K."

"Kornd beef and cabbage!" said McGurk, "what more could any man ask?"

DEATH WAITS ON SLOW, SURE ACID MOTHER GAVE 2

Babies Poisoned by Stage Mad Wife Who Got "Flash from Hell."

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hazel Leukart of Royal Oak, a Detroit suburb, today confessed she poisoned her two little girls on the night of Sept. 28 and sat at their bedside until morning, "hoping and praying they would die."

The act, she said, followed a quarrel with her husband, who refused to permit her to go on the stage.

The children were given a slow, insidious poison that paralyzes its victims and steals with slow march upon the heart, which it finally stills. Those doomed to so die feel no pain but a great lassitude. They retain consciousness to the end.

Shirley, 5, eldest of the children, is expected to die before morning. Edna, 4, has from three to four days to live, doctors declare. Both are in Providence hospital.

Her Children Annoy Her.

"On the night of Sept. 28 the children were slightly ill," Mrs. Leukart said. "I did not feel in a mood to care for them. They annoyed me and in the early morning of the 29th it came to me like a flash from hell that the best way out was to put them where they could not bother."

"I was discouraged, disheartened and hurt. I longed for the bright lights of the stage and the admiring plaudits of the throng."

"I went to the medicine cabinet, found the poison and gave it to the children. The deed done I felt more happy. I sat at their bedside throughout the rest of the night, hoping and praying they would die."

Goes Insane, She Says.

"But the morning came and I realized what I had done. I went insane with grief and lost hope. I knew there was no help. The children were doomed. At last I rushed to the neighbors and told them that the children had taken poison by mistake. I believe I first thought of putting the little girls out of the way at a picture show. I loved them dearly and it was that great love that prompted me to believe them better off dead."

Mrs. Leukart then described how she administered the poison and how she told physicians the children were ill from eating green pears, later saying they had taken poison by mistake.

Physicians say nothing can be done to save the children. The poison accomplishes its mission in twelve days maximum in the case of little ones and in fourteen days where adults are concerned.

Mother Willing to die.

Mrs. Leukart closed her confession by declaring her readiness to plead guilty to any charge preferred by the authorities.

At the hospital today four little hands stole over the top of the white bedspread to gather in the toys which their father, Ray Leukart, had brought. Shirley was said to be half dead. She moaned and tossed her blonde hair, which was tied with a big blue and white ribbon.

"My little tin soldiers—let me see them," she murmured, as her father bent over her. On the next bed her 5 year old sister Edna did not show signs of great suffering. She was able to sit up and play with her box of tin soldiers and look at the pictures in a fairy book.

Husband Blames Melancholy.

Mr. Leukart said that his wife had been subject to fits of hysteria and despondency ever since they have been married.

"Her great ambition was to be a singer. Lately, several of her friends have been studying vocal music, three of them going to Chicago and one to Europe. I told her she had enough to do to take care of the children. I believe that this brought about a greater melancholy which prompted her to do this terrible thing."

The family moved to Royal Oak from Sioux Falls, S. D., two years ago.

LITTLE GIRLS ACCUSE MAM.

John McKenzie was arraigned in the Des Moines street court yesterday on a charge made by Mrs. Anna Horn and Mrs. Catherine Rohrer, sisters, 1723 West Adams street.

Justice Frank Graham continued the case until this morning to permit the police to make further investigation. Two daughters of the women, Virginia Horn, 3, and Charlotte Rohrer, 4, appeared against McKenzie, who was held in $5,000 bonds.

DEATH PENALTY TALK IRKS GIRL SLAYER'S NERVES

Margaret and Marie
Shed Light on Own Characters.

BY MAUDE MARTIN EVERS.
The slow march of law and order being interrupted yesterday by the funeral of Margaret Seithamier's grand-father, Margaret's half-sister and chum, Mary Holmes, seized the opportunity to have an error of the press corrected. Margaret, you know, is the 17 year old damsel who, accompanied by her loyal friend Marie, visited the office of her erstwhile lover, Attorney Benjamin Burr, three months ago and shot him to death. Since that time they have been boarders of the woman's detention home and later in the county jail.

Now a couple of days or so ago the papers announced, so Marie says, that they, Marie and Margaret, put on a battle royal for the enjoyment of their jail-mates. In which, it was stated, one of Marie's eyes became dimmed, crockery flew, a matron was trampled on, and it took three of the guards to drag Margaret off. The cause of this rumpus, it was declared, was a desire on Marie's part to turn state's evidence.

Only an Argument.
So Marie wishes to correct the impression of the sort. Instead there was a slight argument which was adjusted satisfactorily and without an eye blacked nor a crockery cracked.

Another feature that Marie would like cleared is the fact that people insist upon referring to her as Mrs. Marie Holmes. "Now, I don't consider myself married any more, as I was divorced last May, and my husband is going to be married again as soon as he can. He came here to visit me the other day and brought me some fruit; he still cares for me. He told me that I looked good behind the bars. He also asked me how I liked jail life, and I said, 'Fine. I've had a nice rest here, but I'm rested enough now.'"

Has Fond Admirer.
Marie could afford to, because she has a faithful and fond admirer around enough in love with her now to keep her not only supplied with such delicacies in the way of eatables as the jail allows, but money, too.

They yearn not in vain for delectable treats which are not prepared by the jail chef.

Speaking of the jail food, Margaret said cheerily:

"Sure, it's fine stuff if you're in a hurry."

These cheers for the true blue lover of Marie, "He's paying for my lawyer," says Marie, "and he is the only one of my friends who is sticking—but I don't know how long he'll stick after he hears all the things they are going to say about me at the trial. All my girl friends have ditched me, and I used to have lots of 'em, too."

Here Margaret hove into view.

Have Special Privileges.
The girls have been allowed special privileges of liberty in jail on account of their willingness to work.

Those who subscribe their names and address to the scrubbing list and the dining room hustling do not get locked up in their cells immediately after meals. They can roam at will with dripping mop and exercise plentifully with a tray full of extra heavy china. Margaret has been queen of the scrub ladies, while Marie left the scrub to try rustling dishes, but "too hard work," grinned Marie.

"We both quit work a week before the trial," explained Margaret. "We get a look good."

Getting Nervous.
Both girls in chorus wailed, "Gee, I am getting nervous about the way they keep us hanging on here."

Margaret said: "Why, I never expected to go to jail. The day I shot him I thought I'd go home to sleep and go back to my job the next day. I'll never shoot anybody again as long as I live. If anybody shows me a gun I'll run a thousand feet."

And Marie thought the same. "Do you know," she spoke earnestly, "if that judge tells 'em to send me to the penitentiary, I'll just ask him to hang me, because I can't stand it to be shut up like this all the time. Think day Marg and I went up to see Burr we wasn't thinking at all—I don't know what we thought about, but we sure never expected to go to jail—Honest, I was going to my job the next day."

Fears Death Penalty.
Margaret soliloquized, "This trial business makes me awful nervous; every time they say 'death penalty' I get sick to my stomach."

The windows of the jail were wide open and the sun was streaming in. "It's a fine day," quoth Margaret. "I wish little Burr was back to take me to a swell little old lunch." And she whistled a tuneless air.

Husband Kills 'Other Man' in Posen, Ill., Triangle

August Urbanowicz, Posen, Ill., was shot in the back and killed yesterday morning by Oscar Anstrom, a married man, who then gave himself up to the Posen chief of police. According to Anstrom, Urbanowicz had been paying too much attention to his wife, Mrs. Marie Anstrom, who has disappeared.

LEONARD WOOD.

The summoning of Gen. Leonard Wood to restore public safety first in Omaha and a few days later in Gary has a good deal more significance than its surface reveals. Externally it is the usual recourse to the power of the federal government and to its agent, the regular army, in cases where the feebler strength of city or state has fallen short of necessity. Whoever commanded the central department, U. S. A., would be called in such emergencies arising in this region.

But the fact that it was Leonard Wood brought with it a considerably larger percentage of assurance of restored stability than if the federal agency had been some one else. It brought assurance not only of vigorous but of intelligent action in situations where intelligence is as much in requisition as courageous firmness.

An exceptional character and a remarkable career lack of that public confidence, a career of exceptional and remarkable accomplishment in Cuba, in the Philippines, in the military development preceding and accompanying the war.

Very few soldiers of mark in any country possess the combination of qualities which achieved the results of the American occupation of Cuba, qualities of statesmanship and diplomacy in a very distinguished degree, which added a chapter to our history better appreciated and therefore more highly regarded abroad than by this generation of Americans.

Following this service as pro-consul came military contributions of the highest order—the conception and establishment of the military training camps, beginning with the fruitful Plattsburg experiment, and a most telling championship of the universal military training idea. By reason of these two outstanding services far more than any other, the rapid development of our military strength at the crisis of the world war was made possible. Without them it would have been impossible, and these contributions to modern democratic defense were not only of permanent value and world wide note but of most urgent and immediate necessity. When, in addition to this general creative achievement, Gen. Wood turned out by way of concrete application one of the most perfect divisions in the citizen army, a unit remarkable for its efficiency and esprit de corps, and maintained a center of training which was placed almost first by foreign experts, it is not astonishing that Gen. Wood's reputation both at home and abroad survived the very obvious and pusillanimous efforts to obscure or discredit it.

In fact, it is a clear credit to public intuition and judgment that although Gen. Wood, regarded abroad universally and at home pretty generally, as the foremost American soldier of his time, was not permitted to exercise his great gifts and exceptional fund of experience, while in contrast France and Germany, at least, were employing their first rate men in first rate responsibilities, Gen. Wood has emerged with all his influence and a position still virtually unique.

Indeed, the public opinion of him is now edged sharply by the conviction running deep especially among the men of the A. E. F., that because Leonard Wood was left at home thousands of American soldiers never came home. And while only the impartiality of history can pronounce upon the exact justice of that opinion, its existence today in the very blush of our pride in the success of our arms is one of the most remarkable tributes to a personality and a career our annals can show.

So there are very few, if any, men in this period of widespread and profound disquietude and danger to whom in emergency the American people are more likely to turn for understanding strength than to the man whom official resentment or jealousy tried to discard from the nation's service. What is needed in such crises is the Omaha riot and Gary disturbance is unshakable determination in the enforcement of law, with exact respect for private right and sane, good tempered confidence in American character. It is a deserved tribute to Gen. Wood's public service that no one's presence at Gary could give better assurance of order and justice than his.

WHEN A PRESIDENT IS ILL.

Mr. Wilson's illness, which has been of such grave concern to the nation, and which for some days occupied the cabinet with speculations as to what ought to be done during the inability of the president to act, happily has taken a turn for the better. There is a sense of relief occasioned by the latest White House reports and the problem of an executive ad interim is not so immediately pressing.

The deep concern of the nation is inevitable when the health of the president is affected. The executive office is so intricately and precisely meshed with all the other functions of administration and government that the misfortune of the executive immediately is reflected in great or less degree in all the habits of the nation.

Thus the grave illness of a president cannot fail to make us think deeply about our constitutional machinery. While we are relieved by Mr. Wilson's improvement, we ought to reflect that it was after all in some wise providential that his illness should direct our minds to fortifying the government against possible future embarrassment.

Apparently there is nothing in the constitution, the laws, or in precedent to fix absolutely the procedure to be followed should a president, for any cause whatsoever, become incapable of attending his office. The constitution is far from specific, dwelling on the subject only enough to direct that the vice president shall act in the president's absence or during his inability. But carrying the analysis to the limit of its possibilities, ought we not establish a rule whereby the government can carry on, no matter what the emergency and what its character?

The cabinet has been in session prepared to discuss the "adoption of any unusual measures." But clearly the cabinet has no authority. The cabinet has no standing under the constitution and all its powers of whatever sort are derived from the president and his from the constitution. Here then we have the surprising development of a body of men not elected by the people and holding no authority save as delegated preposing to "adopt unusual measures" to carry on the office of which they are creatures and without which they are nothing at all in the view of the constitution.

Perhaps it lies within the power of congress to legislate to the end that presidential functions may not lapse or be endangered. It is the duty of the United States Supreme court to construe the constitution. The construction of the court might be sufficient; might perhaps be developed more clearly by legislation drafted with that end in view. Certainly it must be congress or the Supreme court or both that we are to rely on. It cannot be any unofficial body or a quasi official body like the cabinet.

Clear procedure is necessary. We ought not wait until we are confronted by the actual and menacing need.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS SUGGESTED.

A suggestion that Senator McCumber, when his term in the United States senate expires, move from North Dakota, across the Canadian line, anywhere in Canada, and run for the dominion parliament.

In the senate discussion of the covenant Mr. McCumber made a speech strongly upholding the right of the British empire to have six votes in the league assembly to the one vote of the United States.

This is not an American position, and it cannot be made an American position. Our own weakness, national expediency, an agreement with benefits to us, etc., might reconcile an American to a procedure which he knew in itself was unjust, but this agreement endeavors to rest in American opinion upon its own inherent justice.

No real American can understand it upon that basis. We have as small an opinion of the value of the assembly of the league of nations as it is possible for any one to have. It is a strange congeries of ineffective nations which potentially could rule the world if the great powers would permit a combination of weaklings to vote against them. The council of the league is the thing, and the council at present is the entente of Europe minus Russia and plus the United States.

The assembly, however, does select the four unnamed members of the council, and in this selection the British empire, which has an alliance with Japan and an alliance with France, has six votes in her own right, and starts with that advantage in whatever politics will be played in combining the weaklings for the aggrandizement of the shrewdest of the great.

American participation thus far in European politics has revealed ability only to apologize. We shall be in luck if some nation does not deliver the vote of Cuba against us—or our own.

To accept such conditions of necessity might be a part of national humiliation and despair, but to assert that they are right and equitable and just is not the part of an American statesman.

Senators who cannot see the injustice it does America are serving in the wrong legislative body. They have missed their boundaries. Even some Englishmen say these provisions are loaded dice.

THE ARMY AS MELTING POT.

The case for universal military training is as strong on its side as on its military side. Under the American system it will be an educational institution of first rate importance.

Men and women who seize this conception of the great camps as schools of the people, schools of character, of health, of citizenship, are not to be filled by the assaults of pacifists who have not troubled to find out what the American system may be and will be, or how essentially it differs from their bugaboo militarism.

Well, this week there is in Chicago a lesson in what universal military training under the American system can do. It consists of a detachment from the Recruit Educational Center, U. S. A., Camp Upton, New York. There are twenty-eight men, representing fourteen nationalities. Three months ago they were unable to read, write or speak English. They now do all three and "drill like West Pointers" into the bargain. In this time they have gone through a process of Americanization and have been too busy learning to sing "America" (as they do with a spirit most American audiences fail to show) to remember the hatreds and prejudices they brought from Europe.

They demonstrate what the camps of a democratic army can do to make men, to make citizens, to make a state.

A FEED STORE JOB VERSUS A PROFESSORSHIP.

(Detroit Free Press)

The University of Michigan has just had an impressive illustration of the present lack of appeal of faculty positions to those who are unable to live on education alone. It seems incredible that a doctor of philosophy should reject a position in the distinguished University of Michigan and should prefer to retain a position where bags of meal and sacks of grain are the units of measure. Yet such is the case. Owing to the unexpected influx of students, it has been necessary for the state university authorities to secure additional instructors; so telegraphic invitations were sent to a number of men well known to possess the requisite knowledge and ability. One of these was a man most excellently equipped, possessed of the degrees A. B., A. M., and Ph. D., and having not only a broad and comprehensive knowledge of history but also a command of Latin, Greek, Hebrew, Sanskrit, French, German, Spanish and various other dead and alive languages. He was offered an instructorship in history if he would come for nine months and the salary tendered was $11,500. The doctor of philosophy wired back:

Thanks for the offer. Have a good job in a feed store, and guess I'll stick to it.

As a day laborer in a shipyard, a rolling mill, a coal mine or in any other going concern this doctor of philosophy, master of arts and bachelor of the same, could earn more money than he could get by taking the proffered honorable instructorship in history. By sheer application of the philosophy of which he is so well equipped he could rapidly rise in a rolling mill, for instance, until he could earn anywhere from four to seven thousand dollars a year as a head roller. Even as a rougher, stranger, catcher or edger he could earn more money than is paid a full-fledged professor—and in the same nine-month period for which the great University of Michigan offered him $11,500.

The Doctor's Wife. [From the Ashland, Ky., Independent.] The following meretricious toast was composed for the occasion of the beautiful luncheon in honor of Dr. and Mrs. James W. Kincaid at the beautiful Kincaid home Tuesday evening. The authoress, a "doctor's wife," whose name is omitted is a most brilliant and charming woman. The toast is entitled "The Doctor's Wife," and through the courtesy of Mrs. James W. Kincaid, same has been tendered for publication. The physicians and wives entertained on this auspicious occasion composed an eminent gathering and were special friends of the host and hostess:

So far as the records set forth in the word, This is the first time she has ever been heard. But back of the man who saves your life Has always stood the doctor's wife. Ready to help with pellet or pill, Ready to help in the pull up hill, Ready to answer the phone and find out If it is Smith's lumbago or Jones' gout, If it is Sandy's tonsils or Tommy's toe, And just how soon can the doctor go? Is he out, or is he in? For old man Samples has cracked his shin! Can he come by half past eight? If there isn't a passenger can't he catch the freight? [Continued in our next.]

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. NECKS AND SOAPS COMBINED. Mrs. M. J. B. writes: "Your recent reply on carbuncles led me to make a few remarks which, though they may make the column, will show you that you are appreciated for your frank handling of matters of health. To your deliciously naive remark that 'women are terribly handy with their little wash rags,' they wash their necks to save their necks they wear, let me add, and to save their self-respect. A woman could not look at herself, let alone the world in the face, if she didn't wash her neck often than most men do."

You say, "A man cannot wash his neck without taking off his collar." How easily a man can fool himself and how transparent is his wisdom. Do we not all know that a man considers himself sufficiently clothed to appear before his family before putting on his collar? Does a woman wait until that stage in her dressing before having recourse to the 'little wash rag'?

"None but women know how many matrimonial barbs, though not wrecked, are made to spring a leak on such jagged rocks as a man's aversion to water and his disregard for the nocturnal, not to say diurnal, of the daily toilet. A good piece of advice to give prospective brides would be: 'Make diligent, though of course quiet, inquiry as to the man's personal habits of cleanliness. If not up to your standard, take care, beware.'"

There would be fewer marriages. I would have made observations along this line for many years, though this is the first time any of them were set down on paper. I am forced to the conclusion that many men are inherently lazy and that they get a harder job to do for themselves with a scraper they will not do for themselves with a 'terribly handy little wash rag,' regardless of a wife's wishes. Yet what man wants to live with a dirty woman?

NO MEDICINE EFFICACIOUS. Mrs. M. S. writes: "I have been troubled, for the last two years with attacks of gall bladder. My doctor advised me that sooner or later I will have to undergo an operation for gallstones, which I am strongly against, being a mother of two babies that need my care. What I would like to know is can you advise what I should do? I could take something that would dissolve or absorb them? My age is 26 years."

REPLY. There is no medicine that will dissolve or absorb gallstones.

Mrs. J. M. W. writes: "What causes alcohol in beer? Is it the fermentation of pure malted barley? I have heard people who make their own beer say that the country has gone dry and that the home brewed beer contains from 6 to 9 per cent alcohol."

REPLY. Fermentation. There would be no economy in adding alcohol provided the yeast will make it. Certain wines are fortified, but usually done by adding sugar to the juice.

THE FRIEND OF THE SOLDIER. The Friend of the Soldier will cooperate with the war risk insurance bureau of the treasury department, 1807 Stock Exchange building, Chicago, and with the committee of the Chicago Bar Association on legal assistance to soldiers and sailors, 105 West Monroe street.

Address inquiries to Friend of the Soldier, in this department. To insure a personal reply an addressed and stamped envelope should be inclosed. No attention will be paid to anonymous letters.

NEW MEMBERS IN AMERICAN LEGION. The membership in the American Legion is increasing daily as a result of the present membership drive. The organization is for the assistance and protection of the war veterans and their families who served in the late war, between the dates of April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918. The headquarters of the Chicago chapter report that the blanks which have been printed in this column recently have been coming in at the rate of over 100 per day. These blanks are authentic copies of the application for membership printed by the legion. The next blank will be in Thursday's issue of THE TRIBUNE. Watch for it. Fill it out and send it to the central Chicago office or to the nearest post in your vicinity. Applicants wishing the membership application blank should be discharged upon request unless their posts cannot immediately be filled.

LOAN VALUE. Aurora, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—Just what is meant by the term "loan value" on a policy? How soon can we borrow on the policy, and how much? G. T. V.

A loan value means that the insured has the right to borrow from the government on the security of his policy. The policies provide for loans at any time after the policy has been in force for 12 months, equal to 84 per cent of the cash surrender value.

EX-SERVICE MEN FAVORED. Chicago, Oct. 4.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—Has there been any law or amendment to the civil service law which gives preference to discharged men wishing to take the civil service examinations? Has the state of Illinois passed the bill granting an extra bonus to its fighters?

The amendment to the civil service law applies to men who the civil service examinations subsequent to their discharge. To these men 80 per cent is granted on the fact that only 70 per cent is required to pass the examination. Those who obtain on their own efforts will give them precedence over their competitors.

PREMIUM RATE DETERMINED. Moline, Ill., Oct. 6.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—When one converts his war risk insurance policy to one of the new forms does he have to pay at the rate determined by his present age or can he pay at the rate for the age when he first took out the insurance? I have asked several men from the service but they seem a bit hazy on the subject? Also can the policy be renewed? The premium rate is based on the nearest attained age of the insured at the time of the conversion of the policy. No, the policies are not portable.

ORDINARY LIFE POLICY. La Grange, Ill., Oct. 6.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—Have been out of the army for 10 months, but have kept up my payments on my government insurance. I have not been able to afford to change it prior to this time, but now I have to do it quickly or a higher premium rate will be exacted of me. Please tell me how much a month one must pay on $2,000 for an ordinary life policy at the age of 21. May I change the beneficiary, too? Or had I better wait until the converting of the policy is all straightened out. M. E. S.

The monthly premium rate is $1.17. You may change your beneficiary at any time you wish, but it would doubtless be advisable to have all changes made at the same time to avoid possible confusion.

ANSWERS. A. G. L.—Your good or small discharge from the navy may be sent in to the bureau of navigation, Washington, D. C., where it will be stamped honorable. No new one will be issued. The dues a year for membership in the American Legion are $2.

May M.—No date has been set for the discharge of troops at Camp Bayard, N. M. A service certificate, which will be discharged upon request unless their posts cannot immediately be filled.

E. O. Lilly.—The report about the detachment of Siberian troops due in San Francisco on Oct. 27 did not designate which companies of the 27th infantry were included. The majority of the detachment is 27th infantry men.

Bert F. Lacey—Having been a resident of the state of Minnesota at the time of your enlistment in the army, you are entitled to the bonus granted by that state, provided, of course, that your separation from the service was honorable.

Lester Hauke.—The troops are not all home from France. Many are detailed to the service of supplies and the date of their departure has not been announced by the war department.

M. D. Hinkle.—To obtain the victory medal it is necessary for you to have either your original discharge or in event of its loss, a service certificate, which will be furnished you by the adjutant general of the army.

D. E. Hayes.—Do not send your discharge papers with your application for conversion of insurance. The war risk bureau will supply you with the proper blank for converting your insurance. You may keep up your payments on the present term insurance by making a check or money order payable to the United States treasury and sending it to the disbursing clerk, bureau of war risk insurance, treasury department, Washington, D. C.

Q. O. L.—The members of the S. A. T. C. now honorably discharged are eligible for membership in the American Legion. Fill out the blank form which will appear at the head of this column on Thursday and send it to the headquarters of the Chicago chapter of the American Legion.

C. Dornblaser.—We do not have records of individuals in the navy, either officers or enlisted men. The present whereabouts of a sailor can be learned from the bureau of navigation, Washington, D. C.

Hearing.

He used to speculate longer upon the weekly discussed wage of the lordly milkman in Chicago. He earns $56 a week.

Federal Judge Samuel Alschuler, acting as arbitrator in the stockyards wage controversy, got the facts yesterday from headquarters when G. R. Fitch, president of the Milk Wagon Drivers' association, took the stand to testify in the labor hearing.

"Drivers in the city are working on an average wage now of $35 a week," he declared, "and commissions bring the weekly pay up to about $56 for men peddling milk to residences."

Some Make $80.

"Of course the men who drive the large automobile trucks which deliver the large consignments to hotels, restaurants, manufacturers, and the like, can make more. Some of them make as high as $80 a week."

Alschuler leaned forward in order to make no mistake on the figure. Then he smiled.

"Do they pay you a commission for these $50 a week jobs?" he asked in an aside.

"By no means," protested the association official. "That wouldn't do at all."

The witness did not prove enthusiastic to support the yard drivers' contention that their work should be placed on an hourly basis of pay. He declared it would not be best for the "craft" to institute an hourly pay rate, but that an increase in the weekly wage for yards drivers should be paid.

Oppose Watchmen's Demands.

John chiefs in charge of patrolmen in the Chicago yards took a stand yesterday against the watchmen's requests for an eight hour day and hourly rate of pay.

"If an eight hour day were instituted in our plant," said Chief E. W. Day of the Swift & Co. force, "it would require the hiring of additional men and would result in the discharge of a number of 'box pullers' who are in really above the age limit for the work. As it is, these men can hold over their jobs well."

Alan McKim, superintendent of motive power in the Armour plant, conceded his testimony concerning the work done by electricians.

Old L. R. Wilber of the Armour police force was the last witness called out to outline duties of watchmen before the hearing was adjourned. The hearing will be resumed today.

This is an old, old story to the police and the newspapers. It is tragically new to Mrs. Albert Mason of 131 North Harding avenue. It concerns the faithless husband and father, a deserted wife, and a pretty younger woman.

The husband, John Mason, strong and gymnot, is a prisoner at the detective bureau's lockup. The girl, Gladys Burris, 18 years old, of Westfield, la., is in detention home No. 1.

The Masons were married seven years ago. There are two children, Carlisle, 8, and John Jr., 4 years old. Last July they quarreled and separated.

Last night Mrs. Mason appeared at the detective bureau and asked for the arrest of her husband, John, and a woman companion whom she had named were at the Reed hotel, 102 West Lake street. Detective Sergeant Fred Tapscott and Alex Gasperik found the two registered as man and wife. They were packing their grips.

Ask Court to Settle
1919 Tax Controversy

The state supreme court was asked yesterday to decide the controversy between the board of review and certain taxpayers as to whether the 1919 tax assessments should be completed on the basis of one-third instead of one-half the assessed valuation of property.

The request for a decision came in the name of a citizens' petition for leave to bring mandamus proceedings against the board. Edward R. Litzinger, a member of the board, said last night that the board welcomes the petition in order that the mooted question be settled. If the court decides against the board, there will still be time to complete the tax assessments on the old one-third basis, Mr. Litzinger said.

1,000 GROCERIES CITED BY CLYNE FOR 'SUGAR CROSS'

Get Honeyed Words for Square Deal on Sweets Price.

One thousand Chicago retail grocers were given a clean bill of health and a citation for square dealing during the city's sugar crisis yesterday by District Attorney Charles F. Clyne.

The federal prosecutor announced that only 162 out of 1,162 dealers visited by agents of the department of justice are or have been selling the table necessity at more than 12 cents a pound, and that the majority of dealers have held the price to one-half cent a pound less than the government request of 11 1/2 cents, although they have been compelled to pay excessive prices by refiners.

"The results of the survey are encouraging," declared Mr. Clyne. "They show sugar brokers also have heeded the warning against raising the price."

U. S. Seizes Butter.

An additional step in the federal campaign was taken yesterday when Deputy Marshal H. L. Deike seized 9,000 pounds of butter consigned to Morris & Co. and held in the Ashland cold storage warehouse. The seizure order charged the shipment contains too much moisture. It was manufactured by the Alfalfa Creamery company of Omaha.

Another survey of butter stocks in Chicago cold storage houses, was made to ascertain the quality and quantity.

Five Sell 15 Cent Sugar.

Survey statistics submitted by R. A. Milroy, assistant district attorney, show twelve grocers have been selling sugar as low as 10 cents a pound, twenty-five have charged 10 1/2 cents, and 529 have charged 11 cents. The maximum of 12 cents has been reached by 263 dealers. Only five grocers have been charging the maximum of 15 cents per pound.

The first consignment of the Colorado beet sugar supply promised to Chicago and the mid-west will arrive Friday, according to advices. It is to be set down in Chicago at 10 1/2 cents wholesale and retailers will be asked to set 12 cents as the maximum price and sell no more than two pounds at any time to any customer.

HINES SAYS: "NO READJUSTMENT OF RATES NOW"

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Director General Walker D. Hines tonight announced the decision of the United States railroad administration that if railway rates are to be raised it should be done on application of individual railroads.

In a letter to T. De Witt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, the director general asserts it would be impossible for the government to establish any general readjustment of rates before Jan. 1.

Mr. Hines also takes the position that any new basis of railway rates to be established for the future should be considered from the standpoint of the separate railroads.

"The question of an increase in rates could not properly be considered on the exclusive basis of the unfavorable showing which the railroad administration was making in the early part of this year, because that showing was largely due to abnormally small freight business," said Mr. Hines. "It has seemed to me that the public would not be satisfied to have any general increase in rates put into effect without the concurrence of the interstate commerce commission."

Dairy Stockholder Hit.

"If the investigation proves that the complaints are well founded I will have something for the state's attorney to look into," said Dr. Robertson.

An attorney for the White Eagle Dairy company told Russell J. Poole, director of the food bureau, that one of the stockholders of the concern, who had been accustomed to buy $15 worth of milk a day had switched to another concern during the drivers' strike last June. Since that time threats of the wagon drivers have prevented him from returning his patronage to the company in which he is a stockholder, according to the attorney.

ROLLINS-BUR

PLAN TO INSTALL POLICE SERVICE

Name Garrity; Declare
Detective Bureau Is
"Demoralized."

The council police committee worked out a plan by which they asserted more than 100 policemen, now on easy assignment, would be added to the patrol and protection service without additional expense. To a subcommittee—

Police Chief Garrity disapproved of the plan, and has agreed to a few alterations. They openly charged him with violating one ordinance, as has the police board, and intimate that he has not seen his duty clearly in another instance. They label the detective bureau as "demoralized."

Crime Increase 46 Per Cent.
The committee hesitatingly "accepted" the report. Approval of it was denied yesterday. The committee worked about May 26. They made a trip to eastern cities and collected much information of value if used in Chicago. During this year crime in this city has increased 46 per cent over last year.

Because of the failure of the police department to go along with the committee recommendations, it decided yesterday to prepare an ordinance for a reorganization of the police department. The ordinance is that they can do by ordinance what they failed to do by conference. The ordinance against the detective bureau and the police chief was passed by the subcommittee on its report that "details of sergeants and patrolmen in citizens' dress, either at home or in detective division, be discontinued."

The chief wrote the subcommittee that his recommendations "Details of sergeants and patrolmen in citizens' dress—this may be reduced, but I believe that it will not be abolished completely. Work done by many of these men in the detection of crime makes me believe that it would be very detrimental to the department to have all of these removed from this class of work."

The subcommittee replies with the following recommendation: "Details of sergeants and patrolmen in citizens' dress shall wear citizen's dress when on duty are honored by the public, and the general superintendent of police, in the best analysis, is authorized to take any steps what may be necessary to the enforcement of the ordinance, treating it as out of date in effect, null and void by action of the council by his predecessors in office. Members of the city council have repeatedly asked that sergeants and patrolmen be placed in their dress in violation of this ordinance. Approximately 100 sergeants and patrolmen are being now employed in the detective division and in various offices in the city hall."

Want Incompetents Ousted.
The council as the records show, the number of policemen in citizen's dress has been reduced to a minimum. The subcommittee does not agree with the council's repeated excuse given by the department, that many occurrences of the position of detective, sergeant or patrolman are not qualified for detective duty. The subcommittee, constituting a valid excuse for the existing ordinance by the department, is that many occurrences of the position of detective, sergeant or patrolman are not qualified for detective duty. The subcommittee, constituting a valid excuse for the existing ordinance by the department, is that many occurrences of the position of detective, sergeant or patrolman are not qualified for detective duty.

The men occupying the position of detective, sergeant or patrolman are not qualified for the position that duty, it is clearly the power and is a sworn duty of the general superintendent of police to remove them for incapacity in service, and to replace them by qualified men, in accordance with law and the ordinances of the city of Chicago, who are able to perform the work."

"Service Demoralized."
The subcommittee is strongly of opinion that to abolish the rank of detective, sergeant or patrolman is not another method for the selection of men for detective duty, based absolutely on merit and not on political influence, would be a most commendable measure and would result in the further demoralization of the police department, the demoralization and incapacity of which cannot be questioned."

THRILLS, SPILLS, MARK JUMPING HORSE CONTEST

Two Daring Show Riders
Quality as Heroes but Lose Prizes.

Courage displayed by horse show riders in a jumping contest marked by runaways and spills completely won a crowd that packed the International amphitheater last evening.

The competition was the feature of the National Dairy Show program. The particular heroes, although not the winners, were Helger Rasmussen and Fred Veysey. Both were thrown from their fighting mounts and both leaped again to the saddle and forced their temperamental pets to leap every barrier. Veysey was thrown by Royal Flyer a second time and the animal rolled over him.

The judges awarded first, second, and third prizes to Outlaw, Polly Pepper, and Robin Adair of the Woodin farms.

Women Win Ribbons.

Mrs. Louis Long Coombe took the blue ribbon in the harness horse class, while Harry Gorham, with Mississippi, took second award and John R. Thompson was awarded third place with Glenavon Orchid.

Mrs. Walter Hanley, riding Powder puff, entered by her husband, carried off the blue ribbon in the women's saddle horse class. Patricia, entered by Columbus Healey, was selected for second place, while J. K. Dering won third with Watchful.

The blue ribbon in the harness horse class was carried off by John R. Thompson with his entry Jack Tar. Minnie Alerton, owned by Walter Hanley, took second, while third position was awarded to Exposition, entered by Mrs. Coombe.

Lowden at Show Today.

Gov. Lowden will visit the dairy show today in his capacity as a dairyman. On his Mississippi farm at Oregon, Ill., he has what is declared one of the finest dairy herds in the state.

Blue blooded Holstein and Brown Swiss cattle occupied the show ring during the day.

Fresh from the hands of their caretakers, the cattle had been clipped, polished, pedicured, primped, and pointed to the last degree.

In the Holstein class it was a big day for N. Dickinson & Sons of Lake Geneva, Wis. Two of their animals were declared champions.

Ohio carried off the big honors in the Brown Swiss class. Gallatin Browney, owned by Hull Bros. of Fairview, was declared the senior and grand champion bull of this breed for 1919. Jura M's King, owned by W. O. Bohart of Bozeman, Mont., was declared the junior champion.

Cow Wins Ribbons.

Bottle of Lake View, owned by A. E. Bower of Cleveland, was declared the senior and grand champion cow, while

BROKEN GLASS

Her Romance Ended Just One Month After She Broke Her Mirror.

Mrs. Frances Wood Walker.

"Bad luck for seven years."

That's what Mrs. Frances Wood Walker feared when she broke her dainty, golden trimmed vanity mirror last Jan. 18. Just thirty days from that date the final quarrel and separation occurred which has resulted in the filing of a suit for separate maintenance, in which Ralph F. Walker is named defendant.

It was while she was playing juvenile leads with a north side motion picture firm that their romance started. They were married at the Congress hotel April 27, 1916. The first break in the honeymoon followed within six weeks. According to the petition, her husband "violently beat and struck her" last Dec. 15.

Mrs. Walker is manager of the Indianapolis branch of the Blue Valley Creamery company, of which his father, J. A. Walker, is vice president.

Mrs. Walker has been waiting some weeks to obtain service on her husband, and his visit to the dairy show provided the opportunity. A deputy served notice of the suit, which charges cruelty, while his wife watched from a nearby box.

Minnie M. Bravura, owned by L. S. Marshall & Sons, Leech, Mich., was given the medal for junior champion heifer.

Boys Win Prizes.

The following boys won prizes and trophies in the cattle judging contest: Raymond G. Nesbit, Minnesota, first place, $100 silver loving cup, offered by National Dairy association, and silver loving cup offered by Holstein-Friesian association.

Burton Fernay, Iowa, second place; $75 and gold medal.

John Stansfield, Illinois, third place; $70 and silver medal.

Clarence Rogers, Indiana, Ivan P. Galpin, Michigan, and Cyrus Shabus, Wisconsin, won prizes of $65 and bronze medals.

LEADERS CONFER ON WOOD BOOM FOR PRESIDENT

Gathering in City Is Vital to Candidacy of General.

BY E. O. PHILLIPS.

Conferences of vital importance in connection with the active opening of the campaign for the nomination of Gen. Leonard Wood for president are in progress in Chicago.

John T. King, Republican national committeeman from Connecticut, who is credited with being the manager of the Wood candidacy, arrived from the east yesterday morning. Men of prominence in Republican party affairs from many of the states of the middle west have been summoned for a discussion of the Republican presidential situation as it now stands.

Early Action Expected.

Mr. King said last night that no statement was to be made for the present. He intimated that something definite might be anticipated for today.

Meantime there are indications, more or less significant, that seem to portend early action on the part of the Wood forces. It is known that a quietly working scouting detachment has been looking over the Chicago hotel in a tentative search for headquarters not only during the national convention but from which the pre-convention fight for delegates can be handled. Mr. King is recognized as one of the national leaders who was intimate politically with Col. Roosevelt. It may be that the old Roosevelt headquarters in the Congress hotel, where the great battle of 1916 was staged, will be taken over by the Wood managers.

May Quit Army.

Closely informed Republicans intimated last night that one of the matters that is to be considered in the discussions now on will have to do with Gen. Wood's remaining in active service in the regular army. The feeling among the well posted seems to be that Gen. Wood, before he is placed in the position of being an active contender for the presidency, will resign from the army.

Hotel lobby gossip, in connection with the arrival of Mr. King, naturally turned to the fact that Gen. Wood is now in personal command of the regular army forces on duty at Gary, and that he is just returned from active service at the Omaha riots. The opinion was generally expressed that nothing overt, in the way of initiating the wide-open search for delegates will be undertaken by the Wood management until after the present condition of affairs in the central department of the army, of which Gen. Wood is the commander, shall have become entirely peaceable.

Illinois politicians, interested in the candidacy of Gov. Lowden, are understood to be watching National Committeeman King's conferences for any indication that an effort may be made to enter the Illinois direct primaries next April to get Wood delegates.

There must be something more than an attractive store stocked with fine woollens to build up an extraordinary tailoring business like this in six months' time.

Spacious though this store was to begin with, its growth has necessitated the acquisition of fifty per cent more space to maintain our standard of service.

Would it be reasonable to expect anything like these results of ordinary tailoring?

FLATS SUFFER AS STREET CLEANER FORCE DWINDLES

200 More Men and Teams Laid Off; More Dirt Flies in Homes.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

More than 200 street cleaners and a number of waste collection teams were laid off yesterday by the city because of lack of funds.

On Oct. 7, 1919, the city was working 1,233 white wings, 1,133 on the same day last year, and yesterday only 790. The street bureau teams employed on Oct. 7, 1919, totaled 712, on the same day of last year there were 498, and yesterday there were 440.

The figures give a graphic view of the reduction in the service. If the weather continues warm and dry for a couple of months, housewives can expect more dirt from the streets than in the same period for a number of years.

Comparison by Wards.

The number of teams and men employed on Oct. 7 in 1919, 1918, and 1917, is shown by the following table. The contrast of the three years is shown by the following table, prepared for The Tribune by the bureau of streets:

is the First and Eighteenth wards. The carts were used yesterday and yesterday last year and in 1915.

443 More Miles of Paving.

In the entire period 443 miles of streets have been paved, adding that much to the cleaning to be done. At the same time the wages of the cleaners have been increased from $2.25 in 1917 to $3.10 last year, and $3.65 and $3.75 this year. Team owners were $1.10 in 1917 and $1.25 this year.

The street bureau asserts the city will spend $700,000 from a carefully considered estimate of the bureau's needs for this year, then increased salaries and wages so $400,000 was taken from the man power of the bureau.

In the four years from 1915 to 1919, the common labor employed by the city has decreased from 5,460 to 3,611—a drop of 1,849. By another table at the above table it will be noted the difference in the number of street laborers in the four year period was 1,435.

"Save" on Street Labor.

This indicates that the city council "in its wisdom" trimmed out most of the common labor saved from that which of the city service, which concludes largely to the cleanliness of the city.

It seems reasonable certain some of the aldermanic candidates for reelection will be asked for explanations in the campaign next spring.

BOTTLE OF GIN COSTS $50.

John Geln Bull, 54 years old, of 1325 West Street, a saloon keeper, admitted to Judge Douglas in the Chicago avenue court yesterday that he had a bottle of gin in his saloon and had intended to sell. Judge Douglas fined him $50 and costs.

POETRY, LIQUOR, MAID, SLEUTHS, IN R. B. PECK-SUIT

Former Governess Tells of Family Affairs in London.

Poetry, liquor, a demure French maid, Scotland Yard detectives, taxicabs. A little white terrier. Just such a jumble of persons and things were contained in a deposition filed yesterday for Mrs. Florence Reid Peck of the Plaza hotel in her separate maintenance suit pending against Robert Bowman Peck, poet, art fancier, and stockholder in the Bowman Dairy company.

The deponent is Ideline Carpenter New, a former governess in the Peck home. The scenes recounted in the deposition are laid in London. It was during the war, 1917.

Concerning the Maid.

With Miss New's statement as the basis, Attorney Robert F. Young declared last night that Yvonne Normand, a pretty nurse employed by the Pecks, would be named co-respondent in the case. Concerning her, Miss New's deposition says:

Q—How about the evenings and nights? Was he usually at home? A—Not always.

Q—Do you know anything about his going elsewhere for the night? A—Yes.

Q—When was that? A—In 1917.

Q—Did you have any talk with Mr.

Peck as to where he was going? A—Yes.

Q—What did he say? A—He used to say that he was going to see some woman that he knew.

Q—On those occasions did you see him take anything with him? A—Yes; he usually had drink with him.

Names "the Woman."

Q—Did he have anything else in the way of luggage? A—Not at first. Afterwards I saw him take a suitcase and conceal some clothes about his person, such as shirts. He used to hide the linen under his coat sometimes to take it out.

Q—Did he ever tell you who this other woman was? A—Yes; I knew who she was. She had been employed by Mrs. Peck as a nurse for the children.

Q—What was her name? A—Yvonne Normand.

Q—Did you ever see Yvonne Normand? A—Yes, many times, in a taxicab.

Q—Where would you see this woman in a taxicab? A—Well, around about where Mrs. Peck lived, and at the local shops. She would do most of her shopping at the same shops that Mrs. Peck dealt with and where it was known that she was a maid for Mrs. Peck's children.

Tells of Taking House.

Q—Did you ever have any talk with Mr. Peck as to whether this woman was a Frenchwoman? A—Yes, she was a Frenchwoman.

Q—Do you know whether she has any children? A—Yes, she has one.

Q—Did she ever have any talk with Mr. Peck as to whether he was the father of the child? A—Yes, he said he was. It was a year and a half or two years old.

Q—You never saw the child? A—I saw the child frequently. The nurse used to bring it outside Mrs. Peck's home. I think she sometimes, to annoy me, purposely would pass me and Catherine and Gordon on the street.

Warned by Detectives.

Q—Now, when you were on shipboard did you have any talk with Mr. Peck in regard to his passport? A—Yes, just before we landed. He showed me a paper which he said was his passport. It had, as far as I can remember, words to the effect that he was not to return to England until after the war. I asked him why that should have been put on his passport. He said it might have been because the police of Scotland Yard had warned him it would be far better for him to go back to his own country and for this and Mr. Peck at first refused, but she asked again and said she needed money and Mr. Peck gave her 5 pounds—I think it was five pounds. Then again she said it was not enough money, she wanted more, and Mr. Peck put his hand in his pocket and after a lot of trouble about it, he took out another note, which I think was five pounds. Then again she wanted more, and he took out another note and told her that was all he had. The taxicab man drove us down to the end of Bond street into Piccadilly and I knocked on the window and told the taxicab man I wanted to get out. I got into another taxicab and went and left them together. Next morning Mr. Peck told me that the affair had ended in a fight between them.

"Back to France."

Q—Did you know what became of Yvonne Normand when the Pecks left London? A—She was supposed to have gone back to France. Mr. Peck told me that.

Q—Was she a Frenchwoman? A—Yes, she was a Frenchwoman.

Q—Do you know whether she has any children? A—Yes, she has one.

Q—Did she ever have any talk with Mr. Peck as to whether he was the father of the child? A—Yes, he said he was. It was a year and a half or two years old.

Q—You never saw the child? A—I saw the child frequently. The nurse used to bring it outside Mrs. Peck's home. I think she sometimes, to annoy me, purposely would pass me and Catherine and Gordon on the street.

He said it might have been because the police of Scotland Yard had warned him it would be far better for him to go back to his own country and for this woman to go back to her own country. Q—By "this woman" whom did he mean? A—Yvonne Normand. "Now, will you state what, if anything, you observed about Mr. Peck's conduct during the month that you were employed as governess in the home?" asked Attorney Young. A—Well, he was fond of going upstairs to his study, opening the window and calling out that he was a great poet, the world's greatest poet.

Peck is a brother of David B. Peck, vice president of the Bowman Dairy company. His income is said to be $25,000 a year. Last spring he was ordered by Judge Brothers to make a monthly payment of $500 for Mrs. Peck's support pending the outcome of the suit.

CHICAGO TO GET PEEP INTO HELL ON LAKE FRONT

Tips for Satan in Tomorrow's Fire Day Program.

All that science has done to prevent fire and all that science has done to create fire will be contrasted tomorrow at the official observance of the anniversary of the Chicago fire, which is also "Fire Prevention day."

An elaborate program has been arranged by the Chicago Association of Commerce, in conjunction with military authorities representing the chemical warfare branch of the service.

A large number of the surprises that Uncle Sam had expected to spring on the "Helmies" during 1919 will be revealed to the American public for the first time. Starting early in the afternoon in Grant park east of the Art Institute, a free spectacular display will take place, which is expected to cause a plethora of thrills until late at night.

To Show War Methods.

Among the revelations which will be made will be a demonstration of how Yankee troops captured German machine gun nests with the aid of the new white phosphorus grenade mortar. Flame projectors, guaranteed to broil German tanks in less than the conven-

MAYOR PROCLAIMS WELCOME FOR FIGHTERS

SOLDIERS, sailors, and marines were called upon by Mayor Thompson, in a proclamation issued yesterday, to participate in Chicago's final official welcome home, to be held tomorrow afternoon at the municipal pier.

The mayor's proclamation follows, in part:

"The city council by resolution provided for a welcome home for all returning military organizations from overseas.

"Thursday, Oct. 9, was selected as the final occasion on which the city of Chicago will honor by a cordial personal welcome the unattached soldier, sailor, and marine.

"While we are devoutly thankful to God for the safe return of the many, we reverently mourn the dead, whose service and glorious sacrifice a grateful city will ever hold in sacred memory.

national three minutes, will be shown in action. A tank which makes its own smoke screen will execute maneuvers. The smoke knapsack, which is carried by one soldier and is capable of concealing an entire company of men, will be demonstrated.

Other things to be demonstrated are colored signal rockets, a Stokely mortar barrage, incendiary oil burning on water, the new chemical naval smoke funnel, and night airplane course markers. A house will be destroyed by means of incendiary bombs.

Started by Germans.

"The Germans started the use of inhuman fire methods," said Maj. O. E. Roberts, in charge of the military display. "It remained for America to carry the game to a point where the Germans would have been sorry they were ever born."

The Sixth division band will furnish musical program. A contingent of troops from this division will also be present. Of particular interest will be a company of "Americans All" made up of fourteen nationalities, who could not read or write English three months ago. Now they possess the rudiments of an English education and drill like West Pointers.

"All unattached soldiers, sailors, and marines are invited by the Chicago Historical society to contribute, as a dramatic feature of this day's celebration, war trophies for the exhibition, to be installed on the municipal pier, and further to aid in the perpetuation of the exhibit by donating or loaning these trophies to the society for a permanent exhibition.

"Now, therefore, I, William Hale Thompson, mayor of the city of Chicago, urge that the city be profusely decorated with flags Oct. 9, Chicago day anniversary, and on that day at 2 o'clock p. m. all service men, soldiers, sailors, and marines participate in the entertainment that will be given in their honor at the municipal pier, continuing throughout the afternoon and followed by a brilliant display of fireworks in the evening."

Aldermen Ignore Weather Man and Go Ahead with Plans.

Ald. Timothy Hogan's campaign for a daylight saving system in Chicago went merrily ahead yesterday in spite of the opposition of Prof. Henry J. Cox, the weather prophet, who declares the scheme would be "monkeying with nature" and "the next thing to bolshevism."

Has Twenty Pledges.

"I have talked to many aldermen and have yet to find one that is against the ordinance," said Ald. Hogan. "At the last council meeting twenty of them assured me that they were for it."

Prof. Cox himself admits that his scheme would mean a saving on light bills. He is apparently against it because it would interfere with his weather report system.

COUNCIL CALLED TO DECIDE UPON DAYLIGHT SAVING

Aldermen Ignore Weather Man and Go Ahead with Plans.

Ald. Timothy Hogan's campaign for a daylight saving system in Chicago went merrily ahead yesterday in spite of the opposition of Prof. Henry J. Cox, the weather prophet, who declares the scheme would be "monkeying with nature" and "the next thing to bolshevism."

Ald. Hogan combined with Ald. Mc Nichols, Govier, Kovarik, and Lyle in a call for a special council meeting next Tuesday to consider Ald. Hogan's year around daylight saving plan, which is now in the form of a proposed city ordinance drawn by Assistant Corporation Counsel Breese.

Has Twenty Pledges.

"I have talked to many aldermen and have yet to find one that is against the ordinance," said Ald. Hogan. "At the last council meeting twenty of them assured me that they were for it."

Prof. Cox himself admits that his scheme would mean a saving on light bills. He is apparently against it because it would interfere with his weather report system.

"It is true that the plan would make residents of Evanston and Oak Park reset their watches when they come into Chicago," said Ald. John P. Garner, one of Ald. Hogan's backers. "However, that's their worry, for Chicagoans never go out there. We are legislating for Chicago and not for the suburbs."

May Take Two-thirds.

If there are objections to Ald. Hogan's ordinance at the special council meeting called for next Tuesday, a two-thirds vote will be necessary to pass it, as the ordinance has not been before the council before. The plan calls for advancing the clock the year around. Several aldermen favor limiting the change to the summer months.

Mayor Thompson has indicated that he would sign a daylight saving measure if a referendum provision were attached to it.

ASK $54,000,000 FOR EPISCOPAL CHURCH EFFORTS

Mission Members Fix
Sum; May Be Raised to $100,000,000.

BY THE REV. F. L. GRATIOT.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 7.—The forty-fourth triennial general convention of the Episcopal church opens here to-morrow. The great service at 10:30 a. m. will be preceded by a procession in which more than 100 bishops of the American church as well as bishops from the church in Canada, the Greek church, and the Russian Orthodox church will participate, robed in their ceremonial vestments. The Right Rev. Charles H. Brent will preach the sermon.

At the meeting of the board of missions today it was decided that $54,000,000 is needed, but soon other proposals were added and it was predicted by some that $100,000,000 would be asked. A recent survey showed that 1,000 more workers were needed, 700 parsonages, and the rest laymen and women, over 100 automobiles to increase the efficiency of present workers, and some 2,000 new buildings, churches, parish and community houses.

The campaign is for $54,000,000, at present, to last for a three year period. The question as to how much to raise will go before the convention. Included in the mission budget is the sum of $1,500,000 for the work of "Christian Americanization" of the foreign elements in this country.

To Open with Service.
The opening service of the convention will be the celebration of the Holy Eucharist at St. Paul's cathedral at 10:30 in the morning. The Rev. David S. Tuttle, presiding bishop of the church, will be the celebrant.

The order of the procession, which will march through the street into the cathedral hall, will be the secretaries of the house of bishops and the house of laity, the bishops of the American church, the most recently consecrated first, the bishops of the church of Canada, the oriental bishops, the Rt. Rev. Charles D. Williams, bishop of Virginia, the right reverend the presiding bishop of the American church, Bishop Brent, who preaches the sermon, was chaplain general of the A. E. F. In 1917 he resigned the mission district of the Philippine Islands to become bishop of western New York.

It is expected that more than 5,000 persons will attend the service at 10:30 a. m. In the afternoon the house of bishops will meet and organize at St. Paul's cathedral house. After the closing of the roll the Rt. Rev. Thomas G. Miller, bishop of Tennessee, probably will be selected as chairman. The new deputies meeting in Arcadia hall also will organize. The Rev. Henry Antonic is secretary. The chairman for the last convention, the Rev. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity church, Boston, is likely to be re-elected.

Will Pray for Dead.
The first order of business of the house of bishops is the reading of the names of bishops who have died during the last three years, and the saying of prayers for the repose of their souls. Then the bishops who have been elected since the last convention will be presented. The visiting bishops from the Russian and Greek churches, the Armenian and Syrian bishops will be presented. The meetings of the house of bishops are not open to the public or the press.

The House of Churchwomen organized last night and elected officers. President, Mrs. Homer Knapp, Baltimore, O.; vice president, Mrs. Alice Southworth, Marion, Ind.; treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Heron, Xenia, O.; and Mrs. Mary E. Cooke, Cleveland, O., secretary. The synod has requested that the House of Churchwomen be given space on the executive committee.

ASSAIL REGULARS IN SOUTH SHORE CLUB CONTEST

Whether you are for the "members' ticket" or the "regular ticket," a letter sent around yesterday by the "members' ticket" will be of interest.

"The list of abuses of which the present administration (regular ticket) has been guilty include personal control equivalent to private ownership, arbitrary treatment of the members, and utter disregard of their vested rights, disregard of the bylaws and the establishment of rules to suit the whims of the officers."

Another paragraph says:
"Mr. Brown and his immediate associates point with pride to the financial condition of the club, but it must be borne in mind that excessive charges have been established in all the departments, and even now the members are charged for the use of telephones.

"In other words, custom and exclusiveness have been abandoned for the sake of gain. The watchword of the administration has been 'get the money.' If the members don't like it let them get out."

"As members of the board of governors we keenly feel the disgrace that Mr. Brown has brought upon the club because of his interview, published in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of Sept. 26, in which he declared that the 'shimmy shakers' and the 'bolshewiki' were back of the members' ticket."

We feel that it is a mighty poor way to return the club for the honors of five years heaped upon Mr. Brown."

There is more. It is all signed by E. W. Tobin, Robert E. Peacock, and Robert J. McLaughlin, members of the board of governors.

It promises to be a merry election.

GAS HELD MORE HUMANE IN WAR THAN SHRAPNEL

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Asserting gas in warfare is more humane than shot or shrapnel, Gen. William L. Sibert, chief of the chemical warfare division, today before the house military affairs committee, urged provision be made in army reorganization plans for retention of this division as a permanent arm.

"Statistics show that while about 23 per cent of shot and shrapnel casualties died, the death rate for gas was only 14," Gen. Sibert said. "The value of gas is incalculable. If you have preserved the secret and the enemy has no defense against it you may win the battle—even the war with it."

The general said he thought a peace time army of 250,000 would be adequate.

"PATRIARCH OF SAFE BLOWERS," 83, IS IN AGAIN

Prison Veteran Held on Charge of Raising a Money Order.

Correctly tailored, with cane awing and head held high, Chicago's "Patriarch of Safe Blowers" confronted federal authorities yesterday to disprove the popular belief that eighty-three years is an impossible handicap in the world of professional crime.

This time he registered as "Daniel H. King," charged with raising a money order from a simple six to sixty dollars. He was held under $2,500 bonds by U. S. Commissioner L. F. Mason pending further investigation.

Doesn't Look His Years.

Government officers were inclined to scoff at the veteran's assertion that he has passed his eighty-third birthday. Not so Captain Michael T. Evans of the police department of identification.

"Eighty-three?" he repeated smiling at the prisoner when the latter was brought before him for recognition, "better say one hundred and eighty-three in point of experience—with the first hundred years the hardest, eh, old timer?"

"We've met somewhere before," murmured the prisoner, bowing to the police officer.

The Long Record.

According to the records, the veteran first flashed into criminal light in 1878, when he went "over the river" for safe blowing. Then his name was "George Duncan" and as such he was paroled in 1878.

Changing his commercial title to "Henry Myers," he reappeared in 1882 in connection with the $40,000 theft from the Allen family. He went to jail for fourteen years, but was released in 1890 and helped rob the home of John R. Hoxie, president of the Union Stock Yards, and later serving a six months' term in the house of correction. In 1900 he was sentenced to Chester and served his sentence, only to be caught again in 1912 for another safe blowing job. This time he received a twenty-five year sentence to Waupun penitentiary and was paroled June 26 of this year.

Anti-Smoke Engineers to Inspect Armour's for City

Health Commissioner John Dill Robertson's campaign against the smoke will did not waver yesterday when Attorney Charles Weinfield, a former law partner of Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Eitelson, appeared in behalf of Armour & Co., whom Dr. Robertson has characterized as "Chicago's worst smoker."

Attorney Weinfield pleaded for more time for the packing firm on the ground that they are reconstructing their boiler plant, but it was refused. It was finally agreed that Dr. Robertson shall select two engineers to inspect the plant boilers to devise means of operating them smokelessly.

Work

WE all are atoms engaged in the world's work, each doing his tiny part to complete a gigantic whole.

There is a nobility in work too often but little regarded. Work may be looked upon as merely a "job"—an opportunity to kill time till a miracle occur—or as a stepping-stone to ever widening achievement. It may be thought of as the labor of Sisyphus, rolling a stone uphill only that it might roll down again, or the responsibility of Atlas, upholding the world.

Our attitude of mind in accomplishing the task that lies before us determines our well-being. How much happier is the worker who loves the work, who regards its problems as worthy of his best endeavors, who is fascinated by this game of life!

To recognize that one is a link in the great chain of civilization; that when we cannot act as we wish we must act as we can; that the manly part is to do with might and main all we can do, is to give the best that is in us, and make our progress certain.

In the creed of this Store
Work is a social service.

Two Special Selling Events from the Sixth Floor

Women's Cloth and Satin Frocks—$25 and $35

THREE of the many Frocks specially purchased and attractively priced for this selling are pictured above. The satin frock, at the right, is a simple style, with white crepe Georgette collar and cuffs. There is a more elaborate style, adorned with V-shaped beaded motifs on its three skirt panels and the front of the bodice. Each, $35.

Then, the serge frock, at the center, with its tasseled cord girdle and its embroidery on collar and long front panel, is an interesting style. It would serve admirably for street wear. $35.

At $25—Two Very Good Serge Frocks for Street Wear. One, at the left, has its outstanding, pocketed skirt bead trimmed; another style is trimmed with clusters of tucks.

Women's Moderately Priced Frocks, Sixth Floor, Wabash.

Women's Smart Plaid Wool Skirts—$15 to $25

THE short topcoat and the fur coat or coat establish the necessity for plenty of smart wool skirts in the winter wardrobe. Therefore, this special selling of women's wool skirts, bringing the modish plaid styles, is of timely and fashionable interest. Three of the four specially priced styles are illustrated above.

At $15—knife plaited skirt at the left, made of a gay horizontal striped serge.

At $18.75—the box-plaited skirt at the center, with its plaits stitched flat for a slim appearance.

At $25—the plaited skirt at the right, notable for its handsome woolen, its novelty buttons, its smart pockets. Another style, at $23.75, is offered. This also is plaited, and made of plaid velours.

Women's Skirts, Sixth Floor, South.

Smart Suits and Skirts Made Specially in Extra Sizes

LONG specialization on Suits and Skirts designed for women who wear sizes from 46 upwards has brought to these Sections styles of particular interest. Lines have been carefully studied, and fabrics particularly appropriate to the styles have been employed.

Suits—Of homespun, duvet de laine, duvetyn, silverstone and velours—sizes 46 to 52, according to fabric, $50 upward.

Skirts—Both silks and wools of the most desirable kinds—in waistbands from 33 to 42. Silks, $15 and up; Wools, $17.50 and up.

Women's Suits and Skirts, Sixth Floor, South.

Such Newness!

See the Midwinter
Millinery Exhibits
in the French Salon

SO many new and really thrilling hints to the woman who realizes what a smart hat can do for her appearance! For instance:

Furs dyed all the colors of the rainbow—not just furs as nature, but furs dipped into just the same smart colorings that silks and other modish fabrics are dipped into.

But that is only one astonishing fact. Hats are small, soft in outline, and spread out at the sides, to follow the side bouffancy of skirts and frocks.

And the Veils! They sweep fully to the hips and are of costly Chantilly laces, so that one may spend almost any sum on a veiled hat. Except that our French designer fortunately purchased much of the Chantilly lace, and is making the veils from it, at a lessening of the cost.

Trimnings commence on the crowns and go downwards. No longer is an upshooting ornament very smart. Instead, numberless little tails of mink or Kolinsky fur are fastened at the center of the crowns of turbans, and drop over the face.

Very narrow visor-like rims appear on most turbans, so smart are veils, that Hats make this provision for them.

Black patent leather braid interspersed with silver is another innovation.

These newest whispers of the Paris mode are interpreted most charmingly in the present displays, most of which have but just come from the talented hands of their designers this morning, to make their appearance in the Salon Français and the Salon des Debutantes.

Latest Word from Paris

"Evening styles are becoming so luxurious they are nothing short of amazing. I refer to wraps, frocks and jewels. During the past few days I have dined at the 'Ambassadeurs' and also visited 'L'Oasis' (open air dancing). At both places I saw styles of gorgeous splendor which completely outrank the mode of six months ago."

"At L'Oasis women took advantage of the occasion to wear fur cloaks. Despite the coldness there were dozens of magnificent sable, chinchilla, ermine and mink mantles. Every one was made along new lines—full in upper part, unbelted, and drawn in below the knees."

"Other mantles were made of metallic broche fabrics, having enormous fur collars. For dresses, I already see much velvet. I remarked black velvet dresses elaborately trimmed with ostrich of some striking color. A black velvet dress had a simulated sash end on one side, made of emerald ostrich fringe, while on another, henna colored ostrich was used with excellent effect."

but practically every one figured the series was over.

Sox Slow in Starting.
The Sox got only two hits off Rutherford in four innings, although they hit him hard. Duncan made two great catches and Neale went almost to the overboard in right to get a whale of a drive by Felsch.

Risberg led in the fifth with a walk, and Schalk also drew a pass. Kerr hit hotly toward left. Kopf knocked the ball down but could not get anybody, and the bags were full. John Collins fled out too close to score a run, but Eddie Collins boosted one to center so far that Risberg counted. Kerr thought the ball would be thrown home, but it wasn't, so when he ran down to second he found Schalk there and was easily doubled up.

Weaver Starts the Fun.
In spite of that the Sox got Rutherford in the sixth. Weaver led with a double and scored on Jackson's single. Felsch smashed a two-bagger to left and gave Jackson a ride home. Ring replaced Rutherford right there and retired Gandil and Risberg, but Schalk was the boy in the pinch with a clean one to left, on which Felsch scored the tying run.

Ring went bad in the eighth and walked Jackson and Gandil, putting the Sox within winning distance. Risberg played his string out to three and two, then asked the next on a line over second base. It was a clean shot, but Roush came tearing in and made a shoestring catch of it and could have made a double play, unassisted, because the two runners were tearing for the plate on the supposed hit.

Buck Starts It Again.
Weaver led the winning attack in the tenth with a double to left. Jackson beat out a bunt toward third. Felsch struck out, but Gandil delivered a single to center, scoring Weaver. Risberg also pelted off a hot one, but Kopf intercepted it brilliantly on the fly and doubled up Jackson.

SOX FANS SWELL MILLER FUND AT TRIBUNE BOARD

More than 1,000 fans turned out to watch the reproduction of the White Sox's last stand at the John Miller benefit scoreboard operated by The Tribune in the Tribune building yesterday afternoon. When the Sox made their two rallies, which tied, and later, when they won, the rosters went wild. The turnout added $18.50 to the Miller fund, and today's game should bring the total over the $2,500 mark.

Another great crowd hit the high spots of rooting in Grant park, where they followed the ebb and flow of the Gleason's fortunes via The Tribune's free board on the Colonnade building, 724 South Michigan avenue.

CICOTTE LIKELY TO FACE SALLEE IN CRUCIAL TEST

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 7.—Pitching selections for the seventh game of the world's series scheduled for Redland field tomorrow were shrouded in uncertainty tonight, but it generally was believed that Manager Gleason would start Eddie Cicotte, although twice beaten in a determined effort again to turn the tide of defeat.

"Slim" Sallee, who defeated the Sox 4 to 2 in the second game of the series, probably will be Manager Moran's pitching choice, although he may decide to give Luque, the Cuban twirler, a chance to face the Redlanders. Sallee was batted hard in the second game, the Sox getting ten hits, but succeeding in scoring only two runs.

REDLAND GOSSIP NAMES EVERS TO MANAGE PIRATES

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—One bit of gossip heard in a whispered voice around the hotel lobby here today was that Pittsburgh will have a new manager next season and that the new man will be Johnny Evers, once the keystone king of the Cubs. Johnny is on the board of strategy for Pat Moran in his battle with Bill Gleason, and on occasions has been seen talking to Barney Dreyfus, owner of the Pirates, who also is here for the series.

When Barney was asked he simply smiled and said he hadn't made his plans for next year yet, but he believed he had a club that would be in the fight no matter who managed it.

GASOLINE ALLEY—WATCH THIS DRIVE; IT'LL BE A WHALE!

KERR'S STEADINESS OUTSHINES BOTH OF HIS CINCINNATI FOES

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 7.—Dick Kerr, midwest southpaw pitcher for the Sox, again was the hero of the Chicago rooters tonight after pitching his team to victory in the sixth of the world's series games.

Walter Rutherford, southpaw hero of Cincinnati's victory in the first game of the series, blew up in the sixth inning and was benched. Jimmy Ring, the Redlegs' right hander, who pitched a winning game for his club at Chicago last week, finished and was credited with the defeat.

Walks Costly to Redlegs.
Although Cincinnati knocked eleven hits off of Kerr, while Rutherford and Ring were touched for only ten, an analysis of today's pitching shows that Kerr worked a steadier game. The left hander walked only two men and struck out two. Rutherford and Ring each gave three passes, while two strikeouts were credited to Ring and none to his predecessor.

Kerr gave a total of only fifty balls, while the Cincinnati pitchers threw sixty-five wild ones. The White Sox star put over twenty-seven strikes and his opponents twenty-eight.

Not So Easy for Rutherford.

The dope sheet shows that not once did Rutherford strike the same easy stride which won his first game for him.

Following is the inning record of today's hurlers:

KERR.		1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	Total
Balls	1	2	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	80
Strikes	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	80
Runs	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	59

NOTES OF THE GAME

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 7.—The seventh game of the series scheduled for Redland field tomorrow. The eighth game, if necessary, will be played in Chicago Thursday.

There was a rush for railroad offices after the game to cancel reservations for tonight. Hundreds of Chicago fans, believing that the Sox still are in the race, decided to remain over.

Trying to see the game for nothing was costly to Samuel Lowry, a Cincinnati youth. Lowry was astride a telephone pole just outside the park viewing the contest when he lost his balance and fell to the street. His left leg was broken.

Clarence Rowland, whom Gleason succeeded as manager of the Sox, occupied a seat in the press box and routed for a Sox victory. When Gandil came to bat in the tenth Rowland made the prediction that he would hit safely and break up the game.

parked right beside Dutch Rutherford himself and he said, "Well it ought to be over by now but I lost my stuff." So I said, let's go to the races tomorrow and he said that was my intention but now I have got to come back here again. He asked kind of disappointed over not winning, but great heavens when he gets to be my age he will be glad to be alive, let alone mourning over one ball game.

Rutherford Can't Stand It.

Well, along come the tenth inning and the Sox got a couple birds on the bases and Dutch said good-by, as I don't want to see this whatever happens, as I can't stand no more strain. So he left me and I promised to tell him how the game came out and I will as soon as I see him.

They tell me that the Reds went out on 3 pitched balls in their half of the tenth and that is all I would pitch in any inning if I was doing it, but anyway I didn't see the Red part of the tenth, as I was looking up at a sign on the fence which says, "Vote your protest. Vote 'em No. 4th," so it looks like we would be here a long while and even then I will protest by voting dry.

OPEN MINOR WORLD SERIES TODAY.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 7.—The St. Paul team of the American Association, which tomorrow will meet Vernon of the Coast league in the first of a series of nine games for the title of "minor league championship," got its first workout at Washington park today.

There was a rush for railroad offices after the game to cancel reservations for tonight. Hundreds of Chicago fans, believing that the Sox still are in the race, decided to remain over.

Trying to see the game for nothing was costly to Samuel Lowry, a Cincinnati youth. Lowry was astride a telephone pole just outside the park viewing the contest when he lost his balance and fell to the street. His left leg was broken.

SUDDEN CHANGE IN SOX CAUSES WOE IN CINCINNATI

They All Thought They'd Celebrate Last Night; Now It's Different.

we will win the following two. It's a terrible shame to have a team like the White Sox beaten by a team like the Reds. I don't know what was wrong with them in the other games, but I know I had a bunch of fighting bloodhounds on the field in this game, and they won. The same kind of a team can take the next three.

Kid Feels Pretty Slick.

"I feel awfully good tonight, regardless of the fact we are away behind in the series. I saw my gang go out and play a regular game of ball. If they had done the same thing every day, the series would have been all over to-night and we would be taking the title back to Chicago. No matter what happens from now on, I will feel alright because the boys played at least one good game."

"I know we had a couple of fielding mistakes, but the thing that I liked was the spirit shown. I don't know who will pitch for me tomorrow. I don't care either, if the boys will give him the same kind of support they gave Kerr today. Eddie Cicotte is begging to go back to give the Reds a trimming. So is Claude Williams, and Big Bill James will be mad if he does not get in there."

Moran Not Worried.

If Pat Moran, leader of the Reds, felt any concern over what happened today, he showed no signs of it tonight. As his quarters, he stated that he was absolutely fearless over the outcome.

"I thought the boys would wind it for us today," he offered, "but they were quiet up to their full speed. They will win the championship in the next game I think without a doubt. They hit Kerr hard enough today, but we got some bad breaks."

The play that beat us was Weaver's pop fly to start the sixth. Duncan came in and Kopf went back. They got mixed, and no one got the ball, so it went for two bases. A single and another two-bagger followed and then I took Rutherford out and sent in Ring. A single off Ring tied the score after two were out. There never should have been but one run counted in that inning."

Cincinnati Fans Tote Home $100 Worth of Foul Balls

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 7.—Garry Herrmann's liberality cost him another hundred dollar bill in lost balls at today's game. Every ball that went into the stands or got away from the outfielders during the practice landed in a coat pocket to be toted home to an honored place on the parlor what-not.

The Battle in Detail

FIRST INNING.

Chicago—J. Collins walked for three and two, then lofted to Rath behind second base. E. Collins had two and two, then lined to Roush. Weaver fouled out, missed another, then singled to center. Jackson's best was an easy popout to Groh. No runs; one hit.

Cincinnati—Rath popped to Risberg. Daubert bounced the first one toward Gandil. Groh got the call of three and two and doubled to right center. Roush also got three and two and singled a hot one, which Risberg knocked down close to second. Groh overran third and Risberg's shot to Weaver nailed him. No runs; two hits.

Plenty Here to Hold Interest for a While

"THE LIFE LINE"
Produced by Astoria.
Directed by Mauri. Tourneur.
Presented at the Alcazar.

THE CAST.
Jack Hearn ..... Jack Holt
Lora ..... Lora Owen
Box ..... Wallace Beery
Ruth Hackett ..... Pauline Stark
Joe Hedgett ..... Tully Marshall
Phillip Royson ..... Lewis J. Cody

By Mae Tinee.
Mauri Tourneur, fond of dipping into the melodramas for his special features, this time utilizes George R. Sims' "Romany Rye" to good advantage.

Under his deft handling, the production resolves itself into a colorful affair of high life and the gypsy camps and the Lullum underworld. The lost marriage certificate is, as always, the fox that the dogs are after; there is a most realistic shipwreck, and just to give full measure a fire in a music hall. The cast is composed of people all of whom, with the possible exception of Pauline Stark, are well known to the fans. An "all star" cast that makes its reputation good.

Add to direction and action exceptionally effective camera work—abstract clumsy subtitles from the excellence of the whole, and you have "The Life Line" sum total.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
SARAH: "LET THE PORES breathe at night" is a pretty good precept for you to follow or for any woman who is particular about the care of her face. Before retiring no matter what the time may be, wash the face thoroughly, using a pure toilet soap, a soap free from alkali. Apply a cold cream if your face is grimy and wipe off with a soft cloth. Then give it a good washing, rinsing off with warm water, then cold. You'll keep your skin young until you are an old lady that way.

DORIS BLAKE'S ANSWERS

Sign of Bad Management.

"Dear Miss Blake: Is it a sign of like or dislike when a boy kisses a girl who has repeatedly told him not to and who is not the kind who lets a boy kiss her without a struggle."

"DOLLY."
It is a sign of bad management on your part. I'd say, Dolly. No girl has to put up a second struggle if she is emphatic about the treatment she expects after the first time and even the first time may be wasted off by conducting one's self in such a manner that a boy wouldn't dare act fresh with her.

TWO PIECE SKIRT.

Here is a smart skirt for a woman or for a young girl, simple and practical.

This pattern, No. 9247, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and in 26 to 36 inch waist measure. Size 26 requires 2 1/2 yards of 44 inch material, with 3 1/2 yards of binding.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON, Fried Salt Pork.

You can fry salt pork so as to make it a substitute for other meat, and you can boil it deliciously after the method of making savory fat so as to make of it a real vind and one that is totally unrelated to the "pickled pork" of the old fashioned ocean going tables.

But you can also use fat salt pork in a secondary way to supplement dishes or to make a foundation somewhat corresponding to meat stock. The important thing in this case, or when it is used as a starter for fish chowder, a cream of corn soup, "poverty stew," and various sauces and minces, is that you fry out the fat. I wrote of this supplementary use the other day, and it brought the following valuable remembrance, which referred to "something else again," and suggests Vox Pop's statement of "wilder every hour," or the easiest and quickest way of alleviating a husband's affections. It reads:

"For the sake of humanity I beg to correct Jane Eddington's recipe for frying salt pork in THE TRIBUNE Thursday. If any bride should follow the recipe as printed in said paper there surely would be a divorce in the family in twenty-four hours, all on account of the horrid way told to fry the salt pork."

"When we can fry it to taste almost as good as fried chicken, why not do it? It is so simple if one knows how. Scald the strips, then flour both sides, grease spider well, cook slowly with moderate fire, turn often, and in less than ten minutes it is ready for the table. A breakfast with this and fried apples, toast, and coffee is good enough to try."

Bright Sayings of the Children

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not worth anything in building a fence that will last. Wood, stone, iron, and concrete are the materials that are used in the middle west for making fence post. Stone is not in common use, while wood post has been used since the first fence was built in America. More recently, however, concrete and iron post have come into common usage.

Many farmers are using the concrete corner post, and are finding that it lasts much longer and is probably cheaper in the long run. When properly made, it gives satisfaction.

The farmer can make his own post. Good material and plenty of reinforcement must be used for best results. One part cement, two parts sand, and three parts gravel is the best mixture for making the post. Weak posts are the result of an excess of fine sand and insufficient reinforcement.

Div a hole in the ground about three feet deep and twelve inches in diameter. Leading from this hole, dig a trench eight inches wide, three feet deep, and four feet in length. This excavation serves as a form for the post and braces below the ground. Then build a wooden form of the same dimensions of the post above ground. The form above ground is usually built square. The braces above the surface of the ground may also be made of cement.

When quarter inch rods are placed in all four corners of the post, about one inch from the sides, the post usually stands the strain that may be applied from any direction.

The form should be left on the post at least twenty-four hours.

she got into trouble he'd do the fighting. Well, Joe is a very gallant little boy, isn't he?"

"Gallant! Joe's selfish. Don't you suppose Betty would like to do a little of her own fighting? Joe wants to do it all."

"Italy Is Dante and Fiume Is Beatrice," Insists Campanini

Sig. Cleofonte Campanini reached Chicago yesterday eager with praise for the opera season, which starts Nov. 18, and quite as eager to explain Italy's conduct as to Fiume and the D'Annunzio occupation.

"Fiume is uppermost in the mind of Italians the world over," exclaimed the opera director last night. "Reason and arguments are useless in the face of ardent love, and Italy can be likened to a lover as ardent as Dante, and Fiume in this case is Beatrice."

Sig. Campanini was just as eloquent in regard to his new singers. The tenor Alessandro Dolci, Mme. Campanini, and Alexander Kahn, the director's secretary, came with Sig. Campanini. Harold McCormick and H. M. Johnson greeted the party.

"We have a great season in prospect," said Campanini. "Galli Curi will be with us, Mary Garden, Yvonne Gall, Rosa Raisa, and the other favorites. The new opera, too, will delight the opera lovers."

Maestro Campanini stated that Dolci will be the leading tenor in place of Muratore, who is now appearing in opera in South America, although he is said still to be in ill health.

The maestro was suffering from a slight attack of throat trouble, but so jubilant was he upon his return to the city that he declared to his friends as he arrived in the station:

"Already I feel better than I have since we embarked on our seventeen days' voyage."

Thirteen Jewish educational and charitable institutions of Chicago will be beneficiaries of a two weeks' campaign for $40,000 that will be begun this morning by the Federated Orthodox Jewish Charities of Chicago, for which plans were arranged at a dinner in the Hotel Sherman last night.

The principal speaker was Edgar H. Wells of New York, vice chairman of the endowment fund.

THEATERS

Miss Ethel Barrymore and her new play, "Delacour," are agitating the newspapers of New York into transports of excitement. The Times telegraphs that its critic begins his review thus: "At the zenith of her powers, and in the fullness of her queenly beauty, Ethel Barrymore came back to town last night in the richest and most interesting play that has befallen her in all her years upon the stage."

Miss Barrymore impersonates Lady Helen Hadley, a reckless and impractical daughter of the "mad Varriette" of England. Suspected of infidelity by Sir Bruce, her coarse and drunken husband, she walks out on him, and turns up later as an habitude of flashy cabarets in New York, having pawned her last pearl. The gathering shadows of the play are not dispelled at the end.

Washington, D. C., is also all stirred up over Percy Hutchinson and the London Queen's theater company in "The Luck of the Navy," an important opera. Messrs. Comstock and Gest, Secretary Daniels attended the first performance, and a detachment of gobs distributed naval recruiting literature between the acts.

"The Girl in the Limousine" earned the approval of the first night audience in New York. There is a bed in it and Miss Doris Kenyon does and doffs the negligees and chemises.

Tim Murphy, David Higgins, and Albert Burton are to appear in "Five O'Clock," a new comedy by Frank Bacon, author of "Lightnin'."

A wire from the Times in New York says that "Hitchy-Koo, 1919," is a long odds bet for the season. It is attractively staged and gorgeously mounted.

The Times this morning says further that "Apple Blossoms," with music by Fritz Kreisler, has a score which is "often jaunty and airily capricious," and that its book by William Le Baron is polite, agreeable, and mildly diverting. John Charles Thomas is the principal singer.

William Courtenay on Saturday night will leave Tom Wise to be the sole star of "Cappi Ricks," and will go to New York to rehearse the leading role in the Chicago cast of "Civilian Clothes." Capt. Earle Fox, a screen celebrity, will succeed Mr. Courtenay in the comedy at the Cort.

"Midnight" goes from the Olympic on Saturday evening and "Flo Flo," a familiar musical comedy, returns on the night following.

MUSIC

BY W. L. HUBBARD.

Certain new and far reaching plans for the Chicago Orchestra were made known yesterday in connection with Mr. Stock's return. In continuation of the policy pursued for several seasons of furthering in every way possible the development of the American composer, a scheme is being worked out which it is believed will prove of even more practical benefit to our native creative talent than has the adopted plan of giving frequent public performance to American compositions.

Mr. Stock proposes to hold a series of manuscript rehearsals at given intervals during the winter, either he or Mr. DeLamarter directing. At these rehearsals manuscript compositions by native writers will be played through and thus afford their authors a chance to hear in actual performance just what they have produced. They thus will be able to judge whether or not the effects they have wished to secure are really "there" or whether they exist only on paper. Composers are invited to submit scores which they wish thus played, sending them to Mr. Stock at Orchestra hall.

The success of the "popular" concert has been so pronounced that not only will they be continued, but an additional series called children's programs is to be offered. These will be given at monthly intervals throughout the season either on an afternoon or a Saturday morning and the selection will be such as children and young people will enjoy and which will tend to educate them to appreciation of the more serious symphonic music they will be expected to hear in later years.

model may, however, be carried out in various materials. Thus for afternoon wear one might make the little suspender skirt of either black velvet or black velvet and the bodice of white china silk, a combination that is always liked for the small girls' afternoon frock. Then again the skirt may be of blue serge and the bodice of white flannel.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Too Late to Stop.

I think I can certainly say that my most embarrassing moment came when I was a young woman of seventeen. Even at seventeen, I still delighted in sliding down balustrades. My mother and I were staying a week in a large hotel. One day, the halls being empty and the balustrade shining like a mirror, I simply could not stand the temptation. So I slid wildly from the fifth to the fourth floor. As I started on down toward the third floor, I looked behind me and saw the proprietor of the hotel sitting on the balustrade post. Alas, it was too late for me to stop, and I bumped into him, causing him to fall on the floor with a thud. And when he saw me the look on his face has put all temptations in that line out of my life forever. L. M.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with indigestion? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a pure vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by taste, for they are the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Ask your lawyer, 10c and 25c.

THE OLIVE TABLET CO., Columbus, Ohio.

The hog supply was beyond trade requirements and after opening 25,000 lower the trade weakened further, sales at the time being $1.00 lower than high time of Monday. At the start a load of hogs sold at $15.25, but it was hard to beat $16.25 at the close.

The days average price at $15.25 was lowest since last Thursday, when market was lowest since July, 1917, standing 6c lower than previous day, $1.00 lower than a year ago, and $2.25 lower than two years ago.

Sharply lower provision prices and light shipping demand were beneficial factors in the trade. Outside western markets declined sharply, while Pittsburgh and Buffalo advanced.

Best Cattle Sell at $13.25.

Cattle prices continued their upward climb, prime steers advancing to $13.25, or 25c above the top bid, but the call remained urgent for the best offerings. Calf prices weakened further, best selling at $13.00. Wilson & Co. bought the 1,325 lb steers at $13.25.

Moderate cattle receipts during recent weeks have been a feature of the trade, while the general demand has been very good. Range of prices has widened during this period, the prime finished grades selling relatively higher than general run of offerings.

Sheep Trade Inactive.

Sheep trade was rather indifferent, but general selling was steady. Quality was poor, making many sales look weak. Best lambs sold at $15.75. Comm. feeder lambs selling at $12.25.

Today's receipts are estimated at 12,000 cattle, 17,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep, against 12,000 cattle, 17,000 hogs, and 21,817 sheep corresponding Wednesday a year ago.

Misses' Coat, $67.50, Of Duvet Superior at $125. Of Tricotine at $125. Of Evora Cloth at $135.

Fashion Interest Centers in These Apparel Modes Especially Featured

Daily new style-themes are sensed, elaborating on an accepted line or subtly changing a garniture motif. From the best in this new as soon as it is launched selection is made, and almost simultaneously with the heralding of a vogue, it is given substance in these assortments.

Such are the modes presented at this occasion. Each has those little elegancies, those graceful touches, that meet the instant approval of the discriminating woman and young girl.

Women's Frocks—A Delightful Group at $125

Women's Coats of Evora, Cashmetyne, Vellouise, $135

Women's Suits, Tailored, Rippled, Bloused, $125

The sketch shows one type of mode from each group. In frocks, in addition to the tailored fashions, there are exquisite dinner frocks of beaded Georgette crepe and dance frocks of chiffons. In suits and coats, colors, fashions and fabrics are widely varied.

For Misses—A Costume High in Favor This Winter
Coats of Suede Cloth, $67.50—Wool Plaid Skirts, $30

The smartness, the debonair youth of this outfit, will strike a deep responsive chord in every young girl's heart. The coat is lined with leather, and has collar and cuffs of opossum. The skirt is of wool velour in the jaunty box-pleated style.

Fourth Floor.

Untrimmed Hats—A Selling at $5.75

Brings an Opportunity of Marked Advantage

Finish is a factor worthy of note. These are made with a care often not found in higher priced hats, and the materials are correspondingly fine.

In fabrics one has a choice of zibeline plush silk velvets, hatter's plush, deep-piled dark velvets, and two of these fabrics in combination.

At the same time a special showing is to be made of trimmings, especially adapted to these hats, including flowers, fanciful pins, metal ornaments and feathers.

Fifth Floor, South.

Moderate as the pricing is, it is the quality of the hats in every point in which one judges hats upon which particular emphasis is placed. It is

Their Superiority in All Details That Makes the Values Unusual

In styles, a wide variety of the smaller shapes, the tucked turbans, the beret-crowned hats, rolling sailors, also many wide-brimmed hats.

In colors, navy blue, black, taupe, brown, the beaver tones, the fur shades, and the brighter blues, corals, jade and the varied rose colors.

Each Into the Harmony of the Whole

Each piece of furniture, each decorative article is to the artist a single though component part of the room-picture. All must unite perfectly to produce balance in home decoration. Thus in so many interior schemes a background of some neutral color achieves the effect of bringing these individual furnishings together in one harmonious whole.

Wide-Loom Seamless Chenille Carpet Rugs

have the distinction of being used most satisfactorily and with wonderful results in home decoration following this order of perfect appointment.

Our present assortments of wide-loom seamless chenille carpet rugs give wide latitude for choice, for here are the best productions of American mills, as well as beautiful qualities from Templeton of Scotland, in the soft neutral colors of low tones most chosen.

Featuring Particularly—

Wide-loom chenille carpet rugs of very heavy quality produced especially for this store and, in this particular grade, offered by this store exclusively. Colors—old blue, mole and tan. Widths—9, 10½, 12 and 15 ft. Price, $18 square yard.

McDougall

The Cabinet Itself as an Efficient Piece of Modern Kitchen Furniture

There's no reason why the home kitchen should not be as efficiently equipped as the modern business office, and it was to realize this ideal that the McDougall cabinet was built.

And besides being an energy- and time-saver, these cabinets exhibit a high standard of the cabinet-maker's craft—sturdily constructed with steel-braced corners. There are no nailed or screwed joints to work loose.

The Auto-Front and Other Important Features

The auto front, spar-varnished or enameled in white, rolls down out of the way like the top of an office desk, leaving a full size working table with everything in easy reach.

The auto front and the sliding sanitary top that locks securely when extended are convenient features exclusive with McDougall kitchen cabinets.

A fifty pound capacity flour bin with non-clogging sifter swings down into handy position for filling. Crystal glass sugar and spice jars hold ample portions.

Roomy drawers provide a place for the necessary paring knives, spoons, and the other indispensable articles, with plenty of space for pots and pans in the lower compartments.
